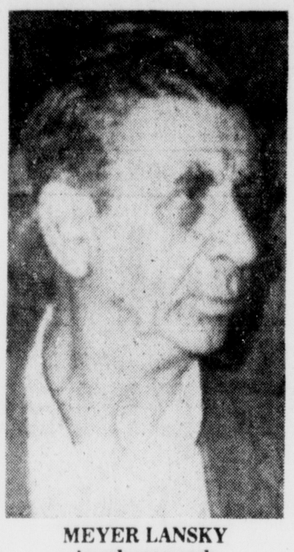
Gambling Czar Held In Miami

MIAMI (UPI) —Meyer Lansky, reputed financial brain of the underworld's gambling empire, was arrested by federal agents today when he returned to the United States from a futile quest on two continents for sanctuary from American justice.



MEYER LANSKY
An odyssey ends

Lansky, 70, was escorted off a Braniff jetliner from South America by Kenneth Whittaker, special agent in charge of the Miami FBI office, and several other agents.

He left Israel late Sunday, five days before authorities said they would deport him if he did not leave voluntarily.

Lansky's arrest ended a 12,700-mile flight in search of a new home, where he could find asylum outside the United States. His last bid failed when Peru joined Israel, Switzerland, Argentina and Paraguay in rejecting him.

After being cleared by customs and immigration officials, Lansky was questioned for nearly two hours at the FBI building in Miami and was booked on charges of income tax evasion and illegal gambling.

He was led to a car and transported to the federal building where he was placed in a detention cell. Arraignment was set for 2 p.m. today before U.S. Magistrate Michael Osman.

Bond was expected to be set at $200,000.

Wearing a rumpled blue sport coat with a white shirt open at the collar, the short, grayhaired Lansky smiled and chatted with the federal agents as he walked toward the customs and immigration offices.

Lansky's wife, Thelma, remained in Tel Aviv while he began hopping around the world.

After Peruvian authorities rejected his attempt to enter the country, a spokesman for Brantiff airlines said Lansky was returning to the United States.

Lansky lived in Miami before he went, as a tourist, to Israel two years ago.

Once there, he applied for Israeli citizenship under the Law of Return which allows any Jew to become a citizen unless the courts decide he is a threat to security.

The Supreme Court did so in Lansky's case. The government argued that if Lansky remained in Israel, the country could become a haven for Jewish criminals.

Bolshevik Anniversary Is Observed

MOSCOW (UPI) —The Soviet Union marked the 55th anniversary of its Bolshevik Revolution today by parading well-known military hardware and declaring that international tensions are relaxing.

The 10-minute military display of rockets, tanks and guns through Red Square produced no surprises. The oratory from the tribune of Lenin's mausoleum was mild compared to past years and did not assail the United States or China by name.

"Thanks to the principled and flexible foreign policy of the Soviet Union and other Socialist states, as well as tg the vigorous activities of progressive forces of the world, some relaxation of international tension has been achieved of late," said defense minister Marshal Andrei A. Grechko.

"However, aggressive imperialist forces are still active in the world," he said. "They stubbornly resist a relaxation of international tension and any peace-loving actions by the Soviet Union and other socialist countries, wage a shameful war in Indochina, prevent the settlement of the Middle East crisis, heat up and unleash armed conflicts.

Western military experts said they found nothing new in the lineup of military hardware that rumbled across the cobblestoned square in a light snow flurry. It was the 100th military parade since the revolution.

The biggest weapon was again the SS9 ICBM, a 120-foot rocket capable of delivering a five-ton nuclear warhead to New York. It was first shown in 1967, the last year the Nov. 7 parade turned up any surprises.

Cancer Operation For Mrs. Black

STANFORD (AP) — Former child star Shirley Temple Black, a U.S. delegate to the United Nations, has undergone an operation for removal of a cancerous breast, doctors at Stanford University Hospital announced yesterday.

Dr. Fred Shidler, who performed the mastectomy last week, said the operation succeeded in removing all traces of a malignant tumor.

Food Prices Level Off In 3rd Quarter

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Retail food prices leveled off in the third quarter of 1972 after a sharp June-to-July jump, the Agriculture Department said today.

Economists writing in a "marketing and transportation situation" summary said the retail cost of a typical family food market basket, on an annual basis, was $1,321 for the quarter. The average had been $1,322 in both July and August and dropped to $1,320 for September.

The figure was up 2.4 per cent from the second quarter cost and was 4.9 per cent above a year earlier. Experts earlier had predicted that retail food costs might ease down in the late months of this year and could hold the average for 1972 as a whole to about 4.5 per cent above last year.

Compared with 1967, however, the increase was more dramatic. The third-quarter market basket cost was 22 per cent above the 1967 base. The farm value of foods in the basket was 28 per cent above 1967, while the middleman's margin was 18 per cent higher than five years ago.

The new report said higher beef and pork prices were mainly responsible for the fact that the third-quarter retail cost was up 2.4 per cent from the April-June quarter. Most of the beef jump came in July, however, and beef prices were trending down toward the end of the third quarter. Price increases also were recorded for frying chickens, eggs, and fresh fruits and vegetables.

The report said increased returns to farmers were chiefly responsible for the higher third-quarter retail average.

Historic Unity Treaty For Germany Is Approved

BONN (UPI) —Chancellor Willy Brandt's government today approved a treaty governing relations with East Germany, the government spokesman announced.

Spokesman Conrad Ahlers said the government gave its approval at a cabinet meeting this morning and empowered State Secretary Egon Bahr, the negotiator, permission to initial the treaty.

The government did not immediately say when the initialling would take place. But informed sources said the ceremony would take place in Bonn Thursday.

The treaty paved the way for entry of both German states into the United Nations, probably early next year. The Bonn government has pledged it would support such applications once the treaty was signed.

United Nations entry alone would establish East German sovereignty in the eyes of the world, diplomatic officials said.

But West German sources said the East-West German treaty stops short of Bonn's full recognition of East Germany as a sovereign state.

Details of how this major issue was solved must await publication of the treaty text, probably after it is initialed this week.

But the West German sources said that among documents accompanying the treaty was a letter from Bonn to East Germany affirming the "unity of the nation". They said East Germany has agreed to accept this letter without rebuttal.

The West German concept of "two states within a single German nation" was one of the most difficult issues during the five months of negotiations, the sources said.

However this question was solved, the two German states will continue to deal separately with other nations, the sources said.

Quadruplets Born In Paris Hospital

PARIS (UPI) —Quadruplets, three boys and a girl, were born prematurely Monday at St. Vincent de Paul Hospital.

The babies, born of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Chemin, weighed from 24 to 30 ounces and were named Gerald, Graziella, Michael and Gery, the hospital said.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

No Cyanide Leads

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Investigators have no "solid leads" in their search for an anonymous letter writer who has threatened to put cyanide-laced food packets on supermarket shelves if the "killer" responsible for the Vietnam war is re-elected.

Sacramento County authorities reported yesterday that four more local residents received letters with food packages containing a "lethal dose" of cyanide along with a handwritten note warning that similar packages would be placed on supermarket shelves.

William Miller, a spokesman for the Sacramento County sheriff's department, said nine residents have received letters with the poisoned food since they were first reported last Friday.

Delivery Speedup

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A speedup in delivery of aircraft to South Vietnam is designed to telescope into a few weeks a program of building up Saigon's air force that had been scheduled to run until fall 1973, Defense Department officials report.

Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim said yesterday the Saigon regime should receive all but perhaps 100 to 150 of its previously scheduled deliveries of planes and helicopters before a peace settlement halts arms reinforcements.

As of Oct. 1, the South Vietnamese air force had received about 1,550 planes and helicopters.

Sabotage Charge

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A young sailor was arraigned yesterday on a charge that he sabotaged an aircraft carrier — the first such accused serviceman to go to court since the start of the Vietnam war.

Fireman Patrick D. Chenoweth, 21, of Puyallup, Wash., was charged at Treasure Island Naval Base with delaying the sailing of the USS Ranger to Southeast Asia for 3½ months.

Chenoweth is accused of dropping a paint scraper and two 12-inch bolts into the reduction gears of the Ranger's No. 4 main engine, causing damage that cost $800,000 to repair.

Execution Urged

MANILA (UPI) — Philippine defense and military officials recommended today the execution either by firing squad or by electrocution of a convicted Chinese narcotics manufacturer.

Information secretary Francisco S. Tatad said the recommendation was under study by President Ferdinand E. Marcos to decide the fate of Lim Seng, alias Gan Suo, 52, who was convicted by a military court for drug trafficking.

Indians In Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Several hundred American Indians today relaxed their five-day grip on the Bureau of Indian Affairs building when high administration officials met with Indian leaders for the first time.

Vernon Bellecrout, a spokesman for the American Indian Movement, said "some progress" was made in negotiations with officials whom the White House identified as Interior Secretary Rogers (C.B.) Morton, presidential aides Leonard Garment and Frank Carlucci and Indian Commissioner Louis Bruce.

The talks began last night and recessed early today. Afterward, many of the Indians left the building they have held for the past five days.

Hijacker's 'Muddle'

TOKYO (UPI) — Police sources said today a bald, chubby-faced Japanese accused of trying to hijack a domestic jetliner carrying 121 passengers told police he got tired of living in the political "muddle" of the U.S.

Tatsuji Nakaoka, 47, gave that justification, the sources said, when police asked him why he tried to hijack a domestic jetliner Monday and fly to Cuba with $2 million ransom and three crewmen as hostages.

Authorities said Nakaoka may face at least seven years' imprisonment if convicted under a hijacking law which came into effect after nine students hijacked another Japan Air Lines flight to Fukuoka in March and fled to North Korea.

Town Hall Bombed

BELFAST (UPI) — A bomb blasted a town hall in the Irish Republic today minutes after a man claiming to be a Protestant extremist from Belfast telephoned a warning, police said.

The dawn explosion ripped through the municipal building of Claremorris, a small town more than 100 miles from the border. It caused extensive damage but no injuries.

Police said shortly before the blast a man claiming to be a Belfast member of the Ulster Volunteer Force called the local telephone company and told an operator he had planted the bomb.

Playboy Is Hit In Italy

LODI, Italy (UPI) —Public prosecutor Francesco Novello drove 10 miles to buy a copy of the first Italian-language edition of Playboy magazine Monday, then ordered the magazine confiscated nationwide.

Novello said the popular American men's magazine violated the law against publication of writings and pictures offensive to common feelings of decency.

Novello said he could not find Playboy on the newstands in Lodi, so drove to nearby Melegnano to buy a copy.

TRUCK OVERTURNS NEAR CORTE MADERA

A tow truck (left) pulls an overturned roofing truck upright as firemen, called to wash down the highway, stand by. The accident occurred about 4 p.m., according to California Highway Patrol officers, when the driver of a Booth and Little truck, Bradford M. McDonald, 25, of Larkspur, tried to pass a John Deere tractor and backhoe operated by Francisco Fukuda, 42, of Petaluma. Officers said the truck hit the rear of the other vehicle and overturned on the shoulder of Highway 101 near Corte Madera. Neither driver was injured.

ABAG Coastline Plan Due Study

The Association of Bay Area Governments coastline plan will be presented at a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Sonoma County Administration Center, Santa Rosa.

The plan prepared by the organization's coastline committee recommends saving all open space land and water along the coast that are either high in open space value or present a threat to public safety if developed.

The plan reports that of 128,000 acres of primary coastal area in the state, 75 per cent has either environmental hazards such as seismic fault lines or would conflict with recreational or agricultural use or would damage a natural habitat.

Sonoma Supervisors Ignazio A. Vella and Robert Theiller will lead the presentation.

Aide To Peron Confers On Return

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) —An aide to former Argentine president Juan D. Peron began a series of meetings with Peronist leaders Monday which he said would culminate in the announcement of a date for the return of Peron from exile in Spain.

The aide, Hector J. Campora, arrived Sunday night from Madrid where Peron, 77, has lived for the past 10 years. Campora refused to give details on the impending trip.

Black Canyon Area Renamed For Barbier

The San Rafael City Council last night designated the city's Black Canyon area as Harry A. Barbier Memorial Park. (Another San Rafael City Council story, page 1.)

The action honored the late city councilman who died Oct. 29 in a San Francisco hospital following heart surgery.

The unanimous vote followed Mayor C. Paul Bettini's suggestion that the park be named in Barbier's memory. Bettini noted that Barbier had hiked in the area as a boy.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Nov. 8.

Bones Are Not The Skyjacker's

KELSO, Wash. (UPI) — Human bones found in the area where hijacker "D.B. Cooper" bailed out of a jetliner with $200,000 last Thanksgiving turned out to be those of a missing hunter and not the elusive skyjacker.

The bones were found in the Cinnamon Park area of southwest Washington and authorities first thought they might be the remains of "Cooper," the name used by the hijacker.

But Monday sheriff's deputies identified the remains as those of James Annis, 16, Hockinson, who disappeared last November while hunting.

Car Burglarized

Robert J. Lueck of 905 Martin Circle, Petaluma, told police yesterday that a radio and tennis equipment valued at $123 were stolen from his car while parked at his home.

Tam School Board Wants To See Bills Before Paying Them

The Tamalpais High School District board last night decided it wants to look at district bills before it pays them, but disagreed over how detailed its inspection should be (Another Tamalpais district story, page 1)

Trustee Bette Wallace called the present practice, under which the board approves warrants which have already been paid, "just a gesture".

Trustee Jerrold M. Ladar said the board should have the opportunity to look at warrants before they are paid. He also doubted the existing practice was "legal and proper".

District Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins and business manager Frank Cassou suggested trustees look at certain categories of bills before they were paid, including purchases of furniture and equipment employing consultants, specific projects and special interest items.

Other transactions, such as purchases of books and supplies, repairs, cleaning, servicing, utility bills and maintance could be paid without prior approval, as under current procedures.

Ladar questioned Cassou's contention that waiting for board approval would take away the district's "quick cash leverage" with local businesses.

Waiting for two weeks for board meetings wouldn't be too long, said Ladar, "and with our budget of $11 million we have suppliers stumbling over themselves."

Both he and Mrs. Wallace suggested the district pay more heed to its announced policy of favoring Marin County suppliers.

Mrs. Wallace cited an item in this month's warrants of $300 for roller skates: "I'm sure there's an answer but we've already paid the bill — if we're going to be accountable we must be really accountable."

Trustee David D. Ring said that in 20 pages of warrants there might be questions raised about two points. "We have to assume the institution is functioning with a certain amount of reason and intelligence."

Mrs. Wallace countered tartly: "It's really amazing how this whole thing gets switched over and you change sides, sweetie."

"We must have the option to say no," said Ladar, and Mrs. Wallace added that the board wasn't going to give up its right of approval.

Duane Miller, representing the Tamalpais Federation of Teachers, said such a policy could have implications on the district's staff development policy because it could apply to workshops and hiring substitute teachers.

And Frank Gold, former federation president, said, "The system is too big to be hitting item by item."

The board instructed Cassou to revise his proposals and bring them back for consideration again.

The Tamalpais High School District board also:

DISCLOSURE — Took no action on a proposed policy requiring trustees to disclose personal information and interests after chairman Robert W. Corlett said county counsel had ruled it unconstitutional.

FIELDHOUSE — Authorized the replacement of the Drake athletic storage building, destroyed by fire in November 1971, with a concrete block structure financed by transfer of $5,000 from the undistributed reserve plus $910.75 in fire insurance.

REHABILITATION — Heard that a report to be presented in January would set up a timetable for priorities for rehabilitation to buildings and grounds. Totals predicted for each school were: Tamalpais, $529,300; Drake, $120,000; Redwood, $141,475.

ADULT EDUCATION — Heard a progress report by Asst. Supt. Robert Torrey on studying the future of the adult education program. He suggested a newspaper questionnaire to determine community needs.

STUDENT — Was introduced to Redwood High School student body president David Bonbright and told that student government proposals for greater student involvement in district government, including an advisory seat on the board of trustees, were presently before the district's management council.

GIFTS — Accepted the donation of a 1964 Dodge automobile for Tam auto shop classes from Masura Matsumura of San Francisco, and books from Blandford High School, England, and from Lt. Cdr. Vincent McGarry.

TEXTBOOKS — Approved a list of 28 textbooks and supplememtary books for school use.

BIDS — Approved calling for bids for the reroofing of the Redwood gymnasium.

PERSONNEL — Hired Samuel E. DiGirolamo to teach Italian at Redwood replacing a teacher on leave of absence for the fall semester at $2,147; granted leaves of absence to Eleanor Bertino, San Andreas, for the spring semester, and to Geraldine Steers, Redwood, for five days in December.

San Rafael Adopts Redevelopment Plan to Steven Goldfarb, the city's legal consultant on redevelopment.

Haim then attacked an agency chart which claimed 45 per cent of 178 nonresidential buildings in the downtown area were in "poor to bad" structural condition. After a heated cross-examination of building inspector Jack K. Coates, who supplied information for the chart, Haim declared the document was "totally without foundation. . .based on guess esti mates of a walking tour.

"His testimony is incompetent," Haim said.

Godino then urged that the downtown, Canal and Francisco Boulevard areas be deleted from the redevelopment plan, leaving only portions of East San Rafael as a project area.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini charged that the county was harassing the city. "If the county decides to take legal action, there will be great expense and delay to San Rafael taxpayers," he said.

Councilman John A. Miskimen urged the attorneys give careful thought before filing "what some may call a nuisance suit."

Several citizens stood to support or oppose the redevelopment plan.

Steven B. Sachs, chairman of the San Rafael Town Meeting Association, said his group supports redevelopment and wants a citizens advisory committee on redevelopment created.

Richard Sadler of San Rafael said the plan "would make a good town into a great town," but added agency staff had been guilty of "overkilll" in its presentation of the proposal.

Arthur J. Ring, a San Rafael architect, told the council he was working on a project which would fill the block bounded by Third and Fourth streets and Lincoln Avenue with a hotel, shop and restaurant complex, including a park plaza and a ballroom. He said existence of the $8 million project depended on redevelopment.

Sig K. Herzog of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce said the tax base within the redevelopment area would continue its downhill trend without redevelopment, resulting in less money for everyone. "If property owners downtown would protest their assessments to the county, there would be a 10 per cent reduction," he said.

John Chambers, a county appraiser, said the Fourth Street area had not been assessed since 1964 and that the trend was "either level or down as far as assessments go."

Others who supported the redevelopment plan included a long string of downtown merchants and chamber of commerce members.

A representative of the San Rafael Parent-Teacher Association said the plan and its financing method was "immoral" and that the plan put the burden of financing on children. She presented the council with petitions signed by 3,264 residents who urged that the San Rafael school system be exempted.

One East San Rafael property owner objected to the plan, saying his area "just got built."

"It's a marvelous idea," declared County Librarian Bruce Bajema. "I'd like to paint my house and have my neighbors pay for it." James H. Mayer, of the San Rafael Library Board, said trustees "generally supported the plan," but had reservations about decreasing revenue.

County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell suggested the city raise its general fund tax by 48 cents, or issue general obligation bonds to pay for redevelopment.

"Obligation bonds require a two-thirds vote, and I wouldn't vote for it if I had to pay for it," said Councilman Fred E. Jensen.

One woman demanded the city ballot the matter.

Before adopting the plan, the council noted that failure to take immediate action on the proposal and failure to file the plan with the state before Jan. 1 would mean a loss of incremental financing for one year.

Bomb Threat Leads To An Arrest

A man, believed to be a disgruntled investor, reportedly threatened yesterday to blow up the Holiday Magic headquarters at 616 Canal Street, San Rafael.

San Rafael police arrested Ralph David Davis, 42, of Dublin, Alameda County, at the firm's office shortly after the alleged threat.

Gayle Patricia Palmer, 24, of 237 Picnic Avenue, Apt. 6, the receptionist, said that Davis arrived at the office at 9:45 a.m. and demanded to see Larry Proffit, a distributor.

When told that Proffit was out of the country, Davis threatened to blow up the building and said he had the dynamite in his car, she reported.

After he made his threat, the receptionist said, he went into an office to talk over his problem, and she called police.

Davis, police said, claimed he had been waiting "for more than three years" for money owed him.

Davis was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of falsely reporting a bomb threat. He was released on $500 bail and was scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court Friday.

ELECTION

A turnout of 85 million in terms of numbers would be the biggest in the nation's history, but in terms of percentage of those eligible —roughly 61 per cent —it would be about the same as four years ago when 60.7 per cent of those eligible used their franchise.

In Topeka, Kan., Alf Landon who won only two states in his 1936 campaign to unseat Franklin D. Roosevelt, said he hoped McGovern would fare even worse. A UPI survey indicated Nixon might carry 49 states and the New York Times said he could win all but two.

Nine minor party candidates also were on presidential ballots today in some states — from one to 33 of them —but their combined vote was hardly likely to make much of a dent in the totals for Nixon and McGovern.

The minor party candidates were John G. Schmitz, American; Louis Fisher, Socialist Labor; Linda Jenness, Socialist Workers; Benjamin Spock, People's; E. Harold Munn, Prohibition; Gus Hall, Communist, Gabriel Green, Universal Party John V. Mahalchik, America First Party and John Hospers, Libertarian.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and the Democratic vice-presidential candidate, Sargent Shriver, both were expected to vote in their home state of Maryland and stay in the Washington area.

Although the Nixon-Agnew ticket was considered an overwhelming favorite, the Nixon "coattails" were not considered long enough to pull in sufficient Republican senatorial and House candidates to let the GOP win congressional control.

The Republicans need a net gain of five Senate seats and 39 House seats.

Neither prospect is likely, indicating another two, maybe four years, of battles between the President and Congress, most strenuously in the area of spending.

Final surveys by pollsters brought grim news to McGovern Monday as he completed 22 months of campaigning for the presidency.

The Gallup poll put him 26 points behind Nixon; the Harris poll showed a deficit of 24; a United Press International poll showed McGovern lucky to carry Massachussetts and the District of Columbia; and state polls in New York, Minnesota, California, Michigan and other states provided parallel findings.

By every indicator, Nixon was headed for a landslide on the dimensions of President Lyndon B. Johnson's 1964 victory over Sen. Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona—a 22 per cent difference—or Franklin D. Roosevelt's modern-time record of sweeping all but two states against Landon in 1936.

board last night approved attendance at the California School Boards Association annual conference in Los Angeles for Hawkins and Bette Wallace.

Teacher representatives asked the board either to state that teachers had not been guilty of abuse of expense funds, or to make specific accusations.

Ladar said nobody on the board had specifically accused anyone of abuses. "The problem is in the general administration of our money. It's totally useless to go backtracking," he said.

Mrs. Wallace said the board's commitment of 1 per cent of its budget to staff development was an indication of its faith in staff's integrity.

Candidate Has A Real Follower

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A man who tried to stow away on Sen. George McGovern's campaign press plane in Philadelphia yesterday turned up 10 hours later in McGovern's hotel in Sioux Falls, S.D., the Secret Service said today.

However, Jack Warner, a spokesman for the Secret Service, said the man was not "of protective interest." He was released after questioning.

Warner would not say whether the man was a member of McGovern's party or a well-wisher, nor would he identify the man.

Big Vote Turnout

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. said today a survey of half of the California's 52 counties indicated a record turnout of voters, with no problems encountered so far.

KNOW THE LAW

California Highway Patrol

Don't Follow In Emergency

Periodically, drivers will find themselves held up in heavy traffic for one reason or another, usually a traffic accident or a disabled vehicle.

However, when they see an emergency vehicle approaching they often will swing in behind it and follow it with the idea of beating the stopped traffic.

Don't do it at any time.

Section 21706 of the California Vehicle Code states, "No motor vehicle, except an authorized emergency vehicle, shall follow within 30 feet of any authorized emergency vehicle of a fire department, police department, sheriff's department or the Cali-fornia Highway Patrol which is responding to an emergency call."

This is not a good practice at any time since the average motorist has no way of knowing what the problem might be. In addition, it will be more difficult to leave the problem area when it is congested with unneeded vehicles.

Stay in your own traffic lane, give way as required to emergency vehicles and don't be impatient. You will get to your destination faster and safer.

Navy Is Seeking Women As Pilots

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Navy announced Tuesday it is seeking eight women volunteers to become Navy pilots.

The 12th Naval District said it would take women officers and officer candidates presently on active duty for the flight training program.

Women pilots cannot be used in combat planes, because of a federal law, but the Navy said it would like some women pilots for transports and search planes and helicopters.

Women Again Denied Equality

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — For the third time San Francisco Press Club members have voted against increasing the rights of women members. A compromise proposal on Monday fell five votes short of the necessary two-third majority—43 to 24. It would have granted women equal membership rights except that they could not use the club swimming pool.

Czech Film Star Gets Lot Of Mail

PRAGUE (AP) — Ever since he was 13, Roman Skamene has been acting in films. After his title role in Mark Twain's "The Prince and the Pauper," he was getting so much fan mail the postman refused to carry it and the boy had to go to the post office himself to pick up his 200 to 300 letters a day.

Though directors describe him as a "God-given talent" and Roman has tried three times to get into the drama academy he was always turned down as "lacking in talent."

Constellation Again Returns

SAN DIEGO (UPI) —The aircraft carrier Constellation made its third unscheduled return to port today when its skipper, Capt. J.D. Ward, decided to meet personally with 130 dissident crewmen.

A spokesman said training exercises originally scheduled to continue through the weekend would be postponed until sometime after the Thanksgiving holiday.

In a statement, the Navy said, "The operating schedule of the USS Constellation has been adjusted to permit the ship's return to its homeport of San Diego today in order for the commanding officer to take a personal role in dealing with the alleged grievances of some 130 crewmembers."

U.S. Boats Fired On, Cutter Stands Guard

MIAMI (UPI) —The Coast Guard cutter Cape Fox stood guard today over two American lobster boats that were fired upon while tending their traps in international waters about 14 miles off Walker's Cay in the Bahamas.

The Cape Fox was sent to the area early Monday after the skipper of the Diamond Head II reported it was fired upon Sunday by three small craftsmanned by black males, probably Bahamian natives.

Stab Victim Found Dying Along Road

With a deep stab wound in his chest, a man described as a "skid row type" died last night beside North San Pedro Road despite attempts by a young couple to save him.

Sheriff's inspector Guido Battaglia today identified the slain man as William Ray Ridge, 33, a welfare recipient probably from San Francisco.

Battaglia said the couple from San Rafael found Ridge shortly after 9 p.m. moaning beside the road three quarters of a mile northwest of China Camp.

The man tried to stop the victim's bleeding with an undershirt while the woman went for help, but Ridge was dead when police and sheriff's investigators arrived.

Battaglia declined to name the couple while the investigation is under way.

As the investigation unfolded today, investigators had found no motive and were looking for an associate of Ridge in the East Bay for questioning.

Battaglia did not know whether Ridge was stabbed along the road or wounded someplace else and then dumped in the open but lightly used area. The body was about 10 feet off the road on the San Pablo Bay side.

Ridge was identified through cards in his wallet, fingerprints and tattoos, the lieutenant said.

Ridge's police record in San Francisco included several arrests for drunkenness, shoplifting and disturbing the peace, according to Battaglia.

The inspector said the deep puncture wound in the right side of Ridge's chest and two scratches on his face apparently were inflicted with a dagger or bayonet. An autopsy was under way this morning at Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael.

Securities Case Charge Dropped

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A federal charge stemming from use of stolen securities has been dismissed for Frederick F. Babo of Novato in U.S. District Court because there was no evidence he knew the stock was hot.

Babo had put up $12,500 in securities in August 1971 in order to obtain a $7,500 loan from Crocker Bank's San Rafael branch.

After the securities turned out to be part of $600 million worth of securities stolen in late 1970 from a trash container at a New York bank before they could be destroyed, Babo was indicted.

He had received the stock, however, he said, from a Charles W. Beeson of San Francisco, who allegedly got it from Joseph E. Stayner of Springfield, Ore. Both of those men still face charges in federal court.

Nicasio Group Elects Officers

Members of the Nicasio Landowners Association, Inc., elected new officers and sponsored a public review of countywide general plan proposals affecting their community last night, as the association held its annual meeting in Nicasio School.

New officers elected were: John G. Kelley, an arcpitect, president; George Gallagher, vice president; Mary Ann Domke, secretary, and Natalie Lewis, treasurer.

Raymond H. Shone, outgoing president, said today the association took no stand on the general plan as presented by Sol Silver of the county planning department. Shone and Silver said association members and other valley residents particularly questioned the impact of low-density, ranch-style zoning for much of the area, in terms of property values.

Teen-Age 'Lord Of Universe' Met By Throng In New Delhi

NEW DELHI (UPI) —Teenage guru Maharaj Ji, called "Lord of the Universe" by his followers, landed at New Delhi's airport today and was met by 10,000 devotees, some of whom rushed to touch and kiss his feet as he was swept through customs.

The crowd, including some 3,000 young Americans and other foreigners, sang "The Lord of the Universe Has Come to Us," as they waited for the plane carrying their leader to arrive from New York.

Upon his arrival back to his homeland after almost a year and a half mission abroad, the pudgy 14-year-old was led quickly through customs to a flower-bedecked throne mounted on a Jeep. He then released four white pigeons handed to him by a follower and gave his blessing to all by extending his arms and wriggling his heavily-ringed fingers.

Indians in the crowd said thousands of peasants were trucked to the capital city to participate in the welcome.

Followers from abroad paid $430 for round-trip tickets that brought them to India on chartered jets for a three-week pilgrimage.

Before Maharaj Ji's plane arrived, young Westerners in the crowd strummed guitars and sang. An Indian band hired for the occasion played a somewhat incongruous march—"Colonel Bogey"—from the days of British rule.

When he stepped from his plane and was garlanded, Maharaj Ji was hustled to customs where some of his followers knelt and kissed his feet.

A New Plan For Curbing Emissions

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Environmental Protection Ageney has proposed rules that would allow repair or replacement of federally required auto antipollution devices before they run 50,000 miles.

The rules, if put into effect, could mean an automobile owner would face a bill of as much as $150 if the antipollution devices should fail to operate properly.

Amendments in 1970 to the Federal Clean Air Act required that emissions from 1975 model cars be reduced at least 90 per cent below 1972 models over the 50,000 mile lifetime of a car. However, manufacturers have said there is no available antipollution device that would last up to 50,000 miles.

The proposed regulations would allow auto manufacturers to replace once during their 50,000-mile tests the "catalytic converter" which most manufacturers say they will use to clean emissions. However, the converter must last at least 25,000 miles.

The EPA said, however, that manufacturers must make sure that the cars will not run better without the devices or when the devices have broken down.

Manufacturers and others have 60 days to comment on the proposed regulations.

All Students Will Be Accommodated

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Officials of the California State University at San Francisco said yesterday the campus expects to accommodate all students who apply for fall 1972 enrollment — provided they sign up this month.

Students who sign up in December or later may not get their first choice of campuses within the 19-school statewide system, and may find quotas already filled in the fields of nursing, architecture and natural resources, according to Charles A. Stone, associate dean of admissions.

Two-Front Attack On The Angels

OAKLAND (UPI) —Authorities went after the Hell's Angels on two fronts today—an Oakland courtroom where four members were on trial for murder and a Ukiah interrogation room where two former motorcycle gang members told all they knew about three bodies found on their farm.

Gang leader Ralph (Sonny) Barger, 34, Oakland, and three colleagues went on trial Monday for the "bathtub murder" of an alleged narcotics dealer last May.

Potential jurors were asked whether they had heard news reports about the Hell's Angels' "burying ground" near Ukiah, about 120 miles north of here.

In Ukiah, federal, state and local authorities questioned George (Baby Huey) Wethern, 33, and his wife, Helen, 29.

They had agreed to "make a clean breast of everything" about the motorcycle gang. They made the pact because federal and state investigators promised them immunity from prosecution.

The Wetherns were arrested after Mendocino County authorities were tipped off the bodies of two men and a woman were buried on their 153-acre ranch.

"He's just saying what he knows," Public Defender Richard Peterson said of Wethern.

The couple's lawyer said they did not "feel particularly good about giving information about their friends.

"They have partially convinced themselves that this is the best thing they can do for their friends. It's not just the head people involved, but others who feel they may get into trouble and that they can save."

Chamber Music To Be Given Thursday

The Sonoma State College Chamber Music Workshop will present its first concert of the year at noon Thursday in Ives Hall.

The program directed by Dr. Ellen Amsterdam will include music from the Renaissance and early baroque periods.

Board To Study Two Ordinances

Two ordinances — one to establish fees for new connections in Marin Municipal Water District and another to make public agencies pay the same water rates as private customers — will be considered for adoption by the district board at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow in the district office in Corte Madera.

The connection ordinance would establish fees for new services ranging from $200 for an apartment to $350 for a single-family home.

The second regulation would require school districts and other public agencies using water for recreation and irrigation to pay 34 cents per 100 cubic feet of water, the same rate for regular customers. Currently, the agencies pay 14.5 cents per 100 cubic feet.

$6.25 Million For Recyclers

NEW YORK (UPI) — Citizen recyclers have received more than $6.25 million for the glass bottles they have collected and taken to bottle reclamation centers in the past two years.

The Glass Container Manufacturers Institute reported on the second anniversary of the industry's bottle redemption program that about 1.25 billion glass containers were turned over in the two-year period. Citizens received about a penny a pound for the waste glass.

"One of the ten best cars in the world."
—Road & Track

Lightning reflexes, vivid performance and lush comfort can exist in one car: the new Mercedes-Benz 350SL has earned widespread plaudits by providing them all. An uncanny blend of sports car dash and limousine poise, powered by a 4.5-litre overhead-cam V-8, mounted on an independent suspension, fitted with 4-wheel disc brakes. BIG MUSHROOMS PROBABLY DEADLY

One mushroom more than nine inches in diameter and two smaller ones —typical of thousands sprouting on tree-covered slopes of Black Point this fall — shouldn't be eaten, according to Raymond F. Moitoza, who is a College of Marin instructor and veteran harvester of field mushrooms. The light-colored one is a member of the often deadly Amanita toadstool genus, with its white gills and ragged, bulbous base. The larger one and its "button" at right have slightly darker gills, but not the smooth, cupless stem of the safer species that is found only in open fields, not under trees. County Health Officer Donovan O. Cooke has repeatedly warned against eating any wild mushrooms, pointing to past fatalities in Marin.

Jury Asks For Indictments In Death Of Girl

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The San Francisco Grand Jury yesterday instructed the district attorney's office to prepare a murder indictment against a house painter in connection with the death of a 17-year-old girl whose body was found dumped in a West Marin gully last April.

According to testimony presented the jury, Willie Joe Slocumb, 31, of San Francisco, gave heroin to Carolyn Fay Mayfield, a junior at Balboa High School in San Francisco, at a San Francisco hotel. Witnesses said he failed to call for medical help when it appeared she had taken an overdose.

The girl's body was found April 22 in a dry creek bed 75 feet from Shoreline Highway south of Stinson Beach.

Slocumb was arrested Oct. 15 in Binghamton, N.Y., six months after the death.

Sausalito Gives Tentative Nod To Leasing Manzanita School

The Sausalito School District board decided tentatively last night to lease Manzanita School in Marin City to the Marin City Community Services District and approved a preliminary draft of a lease agreement.

Trustee Barbara Harris said the board will ask the county counsel's office to draw up a two-and-a-half-year rent-free lease on the building, till June 1975.

A two-member committee of the services district board, composed of Thelma McKinney and Ollie Griffin, will present the school district's proposal to the services district board at its Thursday meeting.

Mrs. McKinney said today she was generally in agreement with the terms of the lease. But she warned the services district will not take over the building unless the school district promises not to interfere with how the building is used.

"Once we sign that lease, we should be able to do what we want, so long as we meet the terms of the agreement," Mrs. McKinney said.

The services district representatives also indicated last night that the Marin City district will not accept a lease on the school unless it is vacant.

This means the school district must take further steps to remove the Marin City Learning Center from the building. The center, a private community school, took over the empty school this summer and has been using it for classes.

The district went to court to force eviction, but the center has to date ignored a court order to vacate Manzanita and is still conducting classes in the building which has been vacant since the school district closed it in September 1971.

Mrs. Harris said the board did not decide on how to empty the building or what steps should be taken to accomplish this.

Under terms of the lease, the services district will coordinate the school's use by community organizations. There is no provision in the proposed lease which would prevent the learning center from sharing use of the building with other groups.

The services district would be required to bring the building up to standard, according to Mrs. Harris and would do general custodial and maintenance work, while the district would make any large structural repairs needed.

The district would also pay insurance on the building, she said.

The Sausalito School District board also:

PLAYGROUND — Approved a $6,000 expenditure to construct a new playground at Bayside School.

EMPLOYMENT — Voted to hire Patrick Morgan as head bus driver and grant him a 5 per cent increase in salary to $739 a month and employ James Morgan as head custodian, with a 5 per cent pay hike to $755 a month.

AIDES — Agreed to establish new aide positions, one clerical and two educational, all part-time and authorized the superintendent to recruit persons to fill the new jobs.

Denver was founded after prospectors located gold in the area during the Pike's Peak gold rush of 1858.

Mobile Home Park Rezoning Is Approved

The Rohnert Park City Council last night approved rezoning for a proposed 80-acre mobile home park but set a limit on the number of children that may live there.

The council introduced an ordinance rezoning the land north of the city golf course, but said it would take a closer look at the plans prior to final adoption.

Diversified Communities Inc. had requested that 60 per cent of the mobile home park be family-style with children permitted, but the council unanimously agreed that 30 per cent for children would be enough.

City clerk Kathryn Logue said councilmen agreed that the area near the golf course would not be a good location for a high concentration of children and said they also feared the already crowded Cotati School District couldn't cope with more than 30 per cent, which should produce approximately 90 students.

Representatives of the developers said they would appeal the ruling when the use permit is sought.

The Rohnert Park City Council also:

FEES — Approved an increase in the development fee from $1,550 per acre to $2,734 to cover higher costs of providing water and sewer lines.

MACHINE — Approved the purchase of a $1,250 mail processing machine.

MUSIC — Balked at a request to install music in the new city office building, saying funds could be better spend on picnic tables for parks.

SPACE — Approved a resolution noting that when reductions are approved on the 6,500-square-foot minimum lot size, the extra space must be used for open space.

MEETING — Adjourned to Nov. 15 at 7:30 p.m. for a joint meeting with the planning commission to consider plans to update the general plan.

What do doctors recommend for patients in pain?

Doctors all over the country dispense over 50,000,000 of these tablets to their patients each year.

There are many medications a physician or dentist can prescribe for pain. Some are narcotic, many are available only on prescription. But there is one pain reliever, available without prescription, doctors dispense again and again... Anacin.

Each year, doctors give over 50,000,000 Anacin tablets to their patients in pain. If doctors think enough about Anacin to dispense all these tablets, what better recommendation can you ask when you are in pain?

You see, Anacin contains more of the pain reliever doctors recommend most than any other leading tablet.

Headache and dental pain is relieved incredibly fast; minor pains of arthritis are dependably eased for hours; even the aches and pains of colds and flu respond to Anacin. So the tension and depression that can be caused by such pain will be relieved too. And millions take Anacin without stomach upset.

When you're in pain, why don't you follow the practice of so many doctors and take the tablet a doctor might give you in his own office. Take Anacin.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
10 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1972 EDITORIAL PAGE

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Scarcely The Place For Objectivity

The Marin County Chamber of Commerve and Visitors Bureau, in a recent bulletin, charged: The tabloid (on the county general plan) distributed to the citizens was not objective. It was highly partisan and laudatory."

The county chamber seemed to feel that the county planning department was subject to blame for this partisan presentation of its brainchild.

WE AGREE that the tabloid presentation of the general plan was a "sales job." It was advertising. It should be viewed as such.

There is, however, a marked tendency for people to regard anything that comes from an "official" source as unprejudiced, objective, and therefore, reliable.

Why it should be so regarded, we cannot understand.

THE COUNTY planning department — to take the example offered by the county chamber's complaint — is staffed by 26 people, most of whom are, in varying degrees, "professional planners." Their purpose — the reason for their being on the tax-paid payroll — is to tell us what we should do with our county.

When they produce a general plan, or any other kind of plan, quite naturally they have pride of authorship. Beyond that, they must believe — and must make us believe — that what they have produced is for our good. So they will give it the best "sales pitch" they know how. To do less would be a tacit admission that they do not have some special knowledge denied to others which enables them to plot the future.

The same holds true throughout bureaucracy, at whatever level. The bureaucrat is hired as an expert. He is supposed to know something that you and I don't know. And so he speaks with authority — and hopes that we will accept what he says as the official, and therefore uncontrovertible, "last word."

THE WHOLE SCHEME of bureaucracy is to convince the rest of us — and especially those elected officials who hold power over the bureaucrats' jobs — that only the hired "expert" has the answers.

To expect objectivity from such a source is about as realistic as to believe in fairies.

Every presentation by a government department, or a government-hired consultant, should be viewed in the realization that it is a sales job.

If we so view these reports, there is no harm in them, for we will subject them to our own analysis, based not on some mythological special knowledge but on down-to-earth considerations and common sense. We will read them as we read advertisements: knowing that they are intended to sell us something, and recognizing that they will therefore try to make what they have to sell look as attractive as possible.

UNFORTUNATELY, elected boards and councils and commissions often don't do this. Frequently they fall into the trap of naively supposing that what they are getting is a factual, unbiased report.

When they do, it is likely to cost us taxpayers a lot of money, and we are likely to get less than full value for that money.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

'No-Fault' This Year Not Likely — And Just As Well

By EARL G. WATERS

Since it has been predicted that the Legislature will return to deal with major issues left unfinished at the August recess, there has been some speculation that this will include "no-fault" auto insurance.

Such speculation is not realistic. In the first place the session is only planned for 30 days and can't exceed 60 days. In this limited time it is unlikely much of anything will get done. The lawmakers, having done practically nothing all year, will be confronted with much more important things than "no-fault".

Most pressing will be to unfreeze the building moratorium resulting from a Supreme Court decision and to remap legislative districts, also urgent because of court action.

IT IS PROBABLY just as well, There appears to be no good reason for any hasty action on this subject despite the propaganda which has beguiled the public for many months. In view of the latest reports concerning the highly touted Massachusetts experiment, it now seems provident that the Senate Judiciary Committee refused to be stampeded into adopting the initial versions of "no-fault."

For it now appears that the claims of the proponents as to the success of the plan have been much distorted. From the moment of its adoption in the Bay State, the rest of the country has been reading of the reduced auto insurance costs resulting from this new concept of motorist protection.

At the outset some insurance companies embarked upon programs to lobby through the same plan in Congress and the other states. In California this campaign included spending large sums in advertising in an attempt to pressure the Legislature. The gist of the ads was the promise of lower insurance. More recently the proponents have backed away from such claims, conceding they are not sure that rates will be reduced.

Part of the reason for this hedging undoubtedly is due to the facts of the Massachusetts experience as contrasted to the claims which continue to emanate from there.

THE FIRST FACT is that prior to "no-fault", insurance rates there were the highest in the nation. Upon enactment of "no-fault" the premiums for bodily injury were reduced 15 per cent. A second reduction of 23 percent was not made voluntarily but by court order after it was found that payouts for bodily injury had been reduced from $90 million to $50 million.

On the basis of these two reduction claims are now being made that motorists have had a 38 per cent decrease in their insurance as a result of "no-fault". This is just not true.

For the decrease in bodily injury premiums has been offset by a 38 per cent increase in physical damage rates granted by the Massachusetts insurance commissioner. While this may seem to balance things out percentagewise, the motorists, dollarwise, are now actually paying 13 per cent more for their total insurance package.

These facts have led John R. Jewell, secretary of Maryland's Department of Licensing and Regulations, to report to his state's Gov. Marvin Mandel that "any claims to date that Massachusetts' no-fault plan has actually reduced premiums for the average policy holder must be viewed as fraudulent."

"Now what?"

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

The good thing about Election Day is that it lets us hear from all those citizens who weren't consulted by the opinion pollsters.

This is the last chance for an "undecided" voter to prove her unpredictability.

You can tell that many citizens look upon voting as a duty — by the way they neglect to do it.

The last word in politics is "I told you so!"

The election booth is like home. It's a place where a fellow is outvoted by the womenfolk and his 18-year-olds.

"Certainly my right hand knows what my left hand . . . Now cut that out!"

Swimming Pool Needed For Water Safety

It occurs to me that one of the neglected aspects of this issue is "water safety." I think that a child's fear of water because of the inability to swim is most tragic. With the successful passage of Proposition "C" on the Nov. 7 ballot, we will be assured that every child (and adult) who wants to learn to swim will have the opportunity. With the present inadequate facilities there is doubt that this is the case.

I would further recommdnd that the school district consider "swimming-P.E." for the elementary and junior high classes when adequate facilities are available.

I urge your yes vote for Proposition C - your child's life may depend on it!

Can't Understand Policy; Likewise With Newspaper

Your editorial today (Oct. 28) re insurance contracts and interpretations has my complete understanding. I have been in the insurance business for 20 years and I can honestly appreciate your viewpoint.

The best evidence I can offer to demonstrate that you really do have my sympathy is the following: I have subscribed to the I-J for about 20 years and have yet to read an account of any event, of which I had direct or personal knowledge, that had much relationship to reality. Inaccuracies, incompleteness, ambiguities and downright distortion to not contribute to your readers' intelligent action or voting. What may be worse: I do not have a commissioner to whom I can complain.

At the moment I can only suggest that you continue to read the policies and I'll keep reading the paper and maybe one of us will break through the barriers. Caveat Emptor!

TODAY'S WORLD

"You'll like doing business with us. When the roll is called for the correction of defects, we'll be there."

Property Buy, Zoning Raise Novato Questions

These questions to the Novato City Council seem important to be asked:

How come you couldn't find the $3400 requested by Mrs. Richard Carter, representing the parents of Pleasant Valley school children, to widen Vineyard Road, when you could so easily locate $45,000 to purchase the Richard Connell property on South Novato Boulevard just a month ago? This was not a listed item on the 1972-73 adopted city budget. Justification for the purchase: "the location of the realignment of Hill Road, 10 years from now."

How come you couldn't allow A-P zoning on the Richard Connell property when the negotiations were going on so the veterinarian in Nave's Shopping Center, Dr. Gideon Sirokin, could relocate? Yet, directly across the street, an R-P zoned home went into an estate sale in Sonoma. This week, City Councilwoman Dorothy Young's husband, Ray, has a sign out, "Young and Co. Realty Office," so he must have received A-P zoning to conduct business there. This house is also in the location of the re-alignment of Hill Road, 10 years from now. It has gone up for sale, been sold, but is now productive in allowing a business to be conducted there. How come the same couldn't have been applied to the Richard Connell property rather than taking it off the tax rolls due to public ownership? Mr. Charles Brown stated during the Vineyard Road discussion "every penny in the budget had already been allocated and it did not include anything for that area. However, he thought, the money could be "found somewhere." Yes, Charlie, it is a budget of concealment. Find the $3400, please.

Band Director Resents Veterans Day Report

We are writing in reference to your front page article, "Nostalgic Ceremony," which appeared in the Independent-Journal Oct. 24.

We feel this was an unfair and uncalled for article. The only true statement, in our opinion, was the fact that we did not play the "Star Spangled Banner" as well as we usually do. However, there were reasons for this: (1) The first trumpet player, as sometimes happens with all players, could not get his notes out. (2) The bass drummer, due to the seating arrangement, could not see the director. Regardless of this we admit and regret that we did not play this perfectly, but there was never any doubt about our "playing it all the way through" — the version we play happens to call for many instruments not to play in the second part of this number. We did, however, do a good job on two other pieces.

We are very disturbed about the negativeness of your entire article. We feel the people sponsoring the program were very sincere and dedicated and you have done nothing but downgrade their efforts and those of the groups who gave their time and efforts to help.

You evidently came to see only the negative aspects of the observance and you succeeded. However, there were several items you missed: (1) All of the high schools in Marin County were invited to attend. Where were they? (2) Why do many people fail to give their time to at least honor those who have given their lives?. . .

In short, the people involved were "doing their thing" and they have just as much a right to do it as others felt they had not to do it. If you felt it was worth covering, you should have given an unbiased report. Since you chose not to, we highly recommend an old adage to you: "If you can't say something good about somebody, don't say anything."

ERWIN D. CANHAM

Nixon's Political Operation Among History's Most Masterful

It is still too early for a post mortem on the election.

But some things surely are clear.

One is that we have rarely seen a political operation more skillfully carried out than the one which presumably is re-electing President Nixon. One may complain, as this column has done, about the failure to clear up the mysteries concerning the "dirty tricks," the alleged wheat, milk, and monopolistic scandals, and various other related matters.

But the overall impact of the Nixon administration on the voters has certainly been tremendously strong.

HOW AND WHY did it happen?

There are those who think this Nixon campaign was more carefully planned and executed than anything in American political history.

Take Vietnam. Its political sting was long since removed, by measures carefully orchestrated to appease both the doves and the hawks and above all the centrists. U.S. forces were brought back massively from South Vietnam itself and the draft was phased down. So much for the doves. Bombing was intensified, no "surrender" was envisaged: so much for the hawks. And for everybody, a continuing and genuine diplomatic offensive through Henry Kissinger was played out through the crucial weeks of the political campaign. Could anything have been more adroitly conceived to contain a political issue — the protraction of the war for four long years — which might otherwise have been fatal?

Take the economy. Unemployment is high: doubled over the past four years. Inflation has feverishly mounted. Some say that a recession was artificially contrived, not produced by business conditions themselves. But the recession impacted politically as a planned means for cooling off inflation. Strong measures of wage and price controls were applied. The President was able to sustain fantastic continuing budgetary deficits — the largest cumulative red in peace-time history by far. But no political price to pay.

IT MAY BE SAID that all this could only take place against the back-drop of the desperate and inneffective McGovern campaign. And the fortuitous removal of George Wallace. These were certainly very important events, without which the situation today would be very different. Of course the capture of the nomination by the McGovern minority is now shown to be a political disaster. It is proving conclusively that American majorities are where many of us have always said they were: around the center, sometimes a bit to the right and sometimes a bit to the left.

The political effectiveness of the President's appeal to these centrist majorities is not to be minimized. Not only on the issues mentioned above, but on the problem of crime in the streets, the Supreme Court, civil rights, etc. The blueprint is roughly the same: skillfully organized steps toward a single goal.

This game plan was applied from the citadel of the White House and the power of the presidency. Indeed, almost all decisions of the past threa and three-quarters years have been largely political decisions. The boldest — and riskiest appearing — of them, like the trip to China, have been the most successful. But there can have been scarcely any action whose political consequences were not carefully evaluated.

IF MOST of the decisions of the first Nixon term have been directed toward a personal political goal, what will be their focus from now on? Will it be to create a strong majority party? Will it be to render certain and admirable Richard Nixon's place in history? Will these two purposes serve the nation's well-being?

Whatever the future holds, there can be no denying that the United States has witnessed an extraordinary political operation which has overcome what would always before have been regarded as insuperable handicaps. The planning and the talent which have produced this result can now be turned to more salutary and lasting ends. It would seem probable that they would be.

Too Few Doctors — And They're Often In The Wrong Places

The United States is suffering both acute maldistribution and an overall shortage of doctors.

That is the import of a study recently completed by the U.S. government's General Accounting Office (GAO).

GAO suggests uneven distribution of physicians may be an even more serious problem, in terms of adequate health care for all Americans, than the shortage.

If every doctor were in just the place he's needed most, GAO found, we'd need about 50,000 more than the present 335,000 licensed physicians on active service.

Some progress is being made toward filling this deficit. With large federal grants being funneled into medical education, the ratio of civilian doctors to civilian population has improved over the past 20 years, from 128 to 137 physicians for every 100,000 people.

BUT THIS IMPROVEMENT in the national doctor-patient ratio is offset, GAO found, by "a serious problem" of inequitable distribution which is "especially acute for millions of Americans living in rural and inner city areas."

Data compiled for GAO by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare shows the physician to population ration ranges from a high of 198 per 100,000 in New York state to a low of 71 per 100,000 in Alaska.

After New York, the best-off states are Massachusetts, Connecticut and California, all of which have ratios for above the national average. Pennsylvania, Maryland, New Jersey, Minnesota, Vermont, Colorado, Washington and Oregon also are in the relatively well-fixed category as regards supply of physicians. All have more than 120 doctors per 100,000 people.

The have-not states, medically speaking, are North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Wyoming, Idaho and New Mexico.

All these have fewer than 96 physicians per 100,000 people.

"COMPOUNDING the probgem of maldistribution of physicians among the states is maldistribution within the states," GAO reported. "Even those states which have a relatively good supply of physicians often have serious shortages in some parts of their central cities and in rural areas."

At least 130 counties in the nation have no resident physicians at all.

The Health Manpower Training Act, which Congress passed in 1971, contains provisions intended eventually to improve the geographic distribution of medical personnel.

Its most important inducement is that medical students may qualify for $5,000 a year federal scholarships if they agree to practice after graduation in areas which have serious shortages of physicians.

A student who attends medical school on a government loan may have 85 per cent of it "forgiven," or marked paid, if he or she accepts and retains a practice in one of America's badly under-doctored areas.

No Amnesty For Leaders Who Got Us Into The War

WASHINGTON — One of the hottest emotional words being bandied about these days is "amnesty." Both President Nixon and Vice President Agnew have vowed never to give amnesty to those who refused to go and fight for freedom in Vietnam. But amnesty means all things to all people.

Cedric Farfinkle, an acquaintance by marriage, told me, "I am against amnesty for anyone who got us involved in Vietnam."

"THAT'S RATHER harsh, Cedric."

"Nevertheless, there is no reason to forgive anyone who cost this country 45,000 lives and $150 billion."

"Christian charity says you should forgive people after a war is over," I protested.

"These men knew what they were doing. They had a choice, and without consulting Congress or anyone, they got us in the war. There should be a public stigma applied to them. They shouldn't be allowed to go off to teach at Harvard, head up banks and law firms, and write books without some kind of punishment," Farfinkle said.

"That's easy for you to say. These men had the choice of going into Vietnam or staying out of it," I said. "The fact that they chose to go in is to their credit. They may have violated the law, but sometimes you have to put your conscience above the law."

"YOU'RE TALKING like a bleeding heart," Farfinkle said. "Suppose we forgave everybody who got us into a war. How would that look to the young people of this country?"

"I may be a bleeding heart, Farfinkle," I said, "but I still believe that no matter what a man did during a war he should not have to carry it around with him the rest of his life."

"I'm not asking for a blanket punishment for all the people who got us into this war," Farfinkle said. "I think each case should be taken on its own merits. There are probably some people who can prove extenuating circumstances, and we might forgive them after a hearing. But what I say is that granting general amnesty for all the men responsible for getting us into this war would be a travesty of justice and would demean the great number of people who have fought for 10 years to get us out."

"EVERYONE MAKES mistakes," I cried. "Just because a man did what he felt was the right thing at the time does not make him guilty of a war crime."

"Maybe so," Farfinkle said, "but I don't think these warmakers should be allowed to just come back and take up their lives where they left off. Perhaps at some future date, after all the emotions have calmed down, some President might pardon them. But for now they should be made to pay the price for their actions. If we grant amnesty, they won't even realize they did anything wrong."

I was getting discouraged. "Every country in the world forgives the people who start a war once the peace agreement is signed. Without that, no one would have faith in his leaders."

"No amnesty," Farfinkle said.

"WHAT KIND of punishment would you propose for those who got us into and kept us in the war?"

"I would forbid them to vote or hold public office. I would also make them serve for two years in some government peace organization to prove they've had a change of mind."

"But, Farfinkle," I said, "what you're proposing to do would punish the cream of the American Establishment. If given amnesty, some of these men may turn out to be fine, upstanding citizens."

"They're going to have to go some," Farfinkle said, "to prove it to me."

New Shopping Center Adds To Questions About Downtown

With the opening of major new stores at the Washington Square Shopping Center in East Petaluma, many Petalumans are wondering about the future of the downtown district.

Grand opening sales have drawn a large number of shoppers from both sides of town, as well as from Novato and Rohnert Park. Shoppers seem undaunted by the inconvenience of the construction work still going on at the plaza and the unfinished street connections which make access difficult for the time being.

SOME ARE WONDERING whatever happened to the expensive downtown core area plan done several years ago by consultants. The plan to upgrade and breathe new life into Petaluma's downtown district has done little but gather dust on shelves.

The Golden Concourse finished several years ago with great fanfare is already beginning to show signs of decay. Decorative planters have been stripped of trees and bushes and have been removed from the concourse to rim a vacant lot at Western Avenue and Fourth Street.

Beer bottles and candy wrappers litter the concourse, and only the decorative light standards and few benches indicate this was once a beautification project.

Downtown merchants have moved ahead on plans to remove parking meters, but the long search for more off-street parking lots has yet to be fruitful.

PETALUMA'S development allotment board has started the job of picking which 500 units will be built next year from among the 1,100 applications. It seems that at least one of the 16 developers may face legal problems even if he gets the nod from the selection board and city council.

Residents of Sunnyslope Avenue, Sunnyhill Drive and Sunnyslope Road are quietly passing the hat for funds to hire an attorney to opose plans by Arthur Condiotti for a development on adjacent I Street Extension.

Representatives of the Area have told Condiotti they have nothing against the type of development he plans, but fear the already substandard road system will be dangerously overloaded by the new population it would add.

Residents reportedly have been dickering with a San Francisco attorney who had a part in the recent supreme court decision requiring environmental impact reports on all but "trivial" projects. They feel his type of expertise will come in handy if the Condiotti plans must be challenged in court.

Panel Says No Changes Needed In College Plan

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —A blue ribbon panel has concluded that California's three-level public college system is providing students witp a top quality higher education and should be left basically unchanged.

The report released Monday by the 16-member Select Committee on the Master Plan for Higher Education contained the results of a year's study of the system.

The committee concluded that no changes should be made in the key element of the master plan—the three-level system of the University of California, the State University and Colleges, and the community colleges.

"We concluded that the general quality level in all of the state's higher education is a pretty distinguished performance," said Dr. Joseph B. Platt, president of Harvey Mudd College and chairman of the committee.

"The community colleges are still a national model, the University of California is still the finest state university in the country and the state university and colleges, by any ranking we've been able to get, are doing pretty well, too," Platt said.

The committee chairman said the panel investigated a half dozen "fairly dramatic alternatives" to the current system, including a suggestion by the legislature several years ago for a single "super board" for all public higher education.

"Our basic conclusion was that we were unpersuaded that a dramatic change in governance would solve any of the problems," he said.

Many voters are casting ballots today by pulling a lever, but the ancient Greeks literally cast their ballots by tossing marked shells or black and white balls into an urn. The word "ballot" seems to come from the Italian "ballotta," meaning little ball. Our colonists are credited with inventing more convenient forms of the ballot. In 1629, members of Salem Church first used the paper ballot, and an act of the Massachusetts Colony in 1647 introduced the absentee ballot.

Housing Slowdown Urged In Novato

The Novato Planning Commission last night approved the proposed general plan for Novato and recommended slowing growth to 400 to 500 new housing units per year and banning apartment construction.

The plan now goes to the city council.

Last night's was the third public hearing before the planning commission, and most of the 60 persons present were homeowners or representatives of homeowner associations favoring fewer apartments and more single-family homes. The developers on hand wanted higher density to make their land profitable.

Commissioner Richard L. O'Connell suggested the city limit new construction to an average of 400 to 500 units per year. He proposed that if construction is less one year, it can be more the next year as long as it averages out.

This motion passed 4-2 with commissioners Benjamin F. Edwards and F. James Picchi opposed.

One of the neighborhood committees, backed by the North Marin Federation, had recommended banning construction of apartments for five years and the commission approved that condition.

The proposed plan places large areas along the ridges in public or private scenic preserves. Commission members expressed the hope that perhaps Marin County would buy much of the public scenic preserves.

Picchi opposed creation of private scenic preserves. "If the citizens or the city buy the land, that would be all right. If not, you are telling the owner that he cannot use it for anything but scenery and yet must pay taxes on it," Picchi said. His argument failed.

The commission opposed commercial use of Hamilton Air Force Base and said the commission should have the say as to what use to make of the base if the military ever abandons it, because it is within Novato city limits.

Commissioners voted to zone as agricultural most of the 700-acre Jack E. Kenney property in Black Point, that portion which is on the flood plain. Kenney has proposed building 2,300 housing units on it.

The commission concurred with the proposed county plan that the 700-acre Bowman Canyon be kept as an inland rural corridor and placed in agricultural preserve. Edwards and Picchi voted against this, holding it would limit Novato's growth to the west at San Marin High School.

A motion to make the access to Indian Valley Colleges from Indian Valley Road a bicycle-pedestrian path failed. Motion to limit the college's enrollment to 5,000 students passed unanimously.

Picchi urged that zoning along the waterfront which is now commercial, be commercial-recreational, allowing marinas or restaurants. The commission concurred.

The first part of the meeting was a rehash of previous arguments before the commission.

Wallace S. Myers, San Rafael attorney representing owners of the 300-acre Anderson-Rowe property south of South Novato Boulevard, asked that it be granted in multiple dwelling density, matching that north of it. Duplexes are allowed south of it. The commission limited the property to single-family dwellings, varying from one to five units per acre.

T.W. Donoghue Jr. asked for a higher density for 33 acres at Hill Road and Tamalpais Avenue. The commission left it zoned for one unit per 10,000 square feet.

Alfred Bellucci, of 7 Equestrian Court, asked that his 2.5 acres at Railroad and Orange avenues be made light industrial or commercial. The commission added it to the Novato downtown plan, which is not yet part of the proposed general plan.

Robert Burk of the San Marin Improvement Association and Terry Vance of the Marin Country Club Homeowners Association supported the proposed general plan.

The big developers, such as Kenney, did not attend last night's final hearing before the planning commission.

The commission adjourned to 8 p.m. next Monday for its regular meeting in the Novato Community house.

Airline To Beef Up European Operations

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Japan Air Lines plans to expand its European operations with construction of a luxury hotel in Paris and the addition of Athens, Greece, to its international routes.

JAL said Monday its subsidiary, Japan Air Lines Development Co., Ltd., would build the 782-room 32-story hotel. A spokesman said completion was expected by 1975.

Petaluma Freezes Major Home, Office Development

The Petaluma City Council last night put the freeze on a major building project when developers balked at submitting an environmental impact report.

Qantas Development Corp. asked that 37.5 acres behind the Washington Square shopping center be rezoned to permit a subdivision of single-family homes and medical-professional offices. Spokesmen argued unsuccessfully that the project would have no significant effect on the environment.

The council, with concurrence from City Atty. Edouard E. Robert, ruled that an impact statement would be necessary since only "trivial" projects can be exempted. All said they doubted the project could be considered insignificant.

Robert O'Neel, representing the developers, argued that the project would be merely a continuation of other subdivision development and would have no adverse effect.

He said the already crowded McDowell School could not accommodate children from the proposed project but said money would be made available to bus students across town to less crowded schools. He said an offer to provide additional classrooms at McDowell was rejected.

The council advised O'Neel to submit a written report at the Nov. 27 council meeting for further consideration.

The Petaluma City Council Also:

PARK — Formally approved an agreement with Sonoma County to share costs of developing Sholenberger River Park and was told that although a county application for a $25,000 federal grant was denied, the money will be put up by the county.

RECYCLING — Heard representatives of Petaluma Recycling Center ask city help in finding a permanent location for storage. Councilmen Fred V. Mattei, Robert A. Brunner and Richard W. Clecak were named to a committee to work on the project.

FUNDS — Endorsed the application of Sonoma County to the Metropolitan Transportation Commission for $608,000 as its share of state gasoline sales tax revenue. Funds would be used for a countywide transportation study.

EROSION — Asked Sonoma County Water Agency to share cost of repairing erosion damage at Washington Creek near Ely Road.

MEETING — Adjourned to Monday at 4 p.m. to hear a request from the Sonoma-Marin fair board of directors for a 25-year extension on the fairgrounds lease. The council also canceled the regular meeting for Nov. 20 and rescheduled it for Nov. 27.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Boy, 16, Gets Advice On How To Handle Older Woman, 20

HELEN AND SUE:

I'm a 16-year-old guy who is old for his age. This 20-year-old college girl was a great chick, but after a couple of months I knew we couldn't make it together. I've told her honest but nice, that it's over, but. . .

The trouble is she hangs on. She calls and comes over in her car and even though I don't want her to take me out — well I can't tell her to go take a flying jump because that would be mean — so I end up going. And when I'm with her I think about this girl my age whom I'd like to date if I could just get Jane off my back.

What do you do when an older woman says she can't live without you? — TIM

P.S. Jane has friends her own age — she's not retarded or anything. Not backward either!

TIM:

If "nice and honest" doesn't work, take another route: Act younger than your age for a change. Make Jane feel like a mother-image. Put on the dumb kid brother act. If you're a good enough actor, she won't be hanging around much longer. — SUE

DEAR TIM:

. . .Unless Jane enjoys playing mother.

Sometimes "being mean" is the only way to get your meaning across. If Sue's ruse doesn't work, then tell her you're through; you have another girl now; and don't back down! — HELEN

DEAR RAP:

I'm more mature than most kids of 16. I like a guy who is 21, but he used to take dope and my parents won't give him a chance. Really, he's changed.

I don't like sneaking, but my folks won't even let me talk to him on the telephone. He wants me to travel with him next uummer and I'm wild about traveling, but if I go, my father might track me down and put him in jail. Meanwhile I see him whenever I can get away. Naturally, he won't come to the house.

How do you convince hopelessly old-fashioned parents? — WISHING AND HOPING

DEAR W AND H:

Sometimes "old-fashioned" parents are like antiques. They have a lot of value, once you polish them up.

Instead of putting them down as hopeless, try really talking it out. When they know you'll come half-way to their side, maybe they'll give your guy a chance to prove he's changed. — SUE

DEAR W AND H:

. . .And maybe he hasn't changed as much as you'd like to believe. Would a trustworthy adult ask a 16-year-old girl for sneak dates? Would he encourage her to run off and travel with him?

Parents aren't "hopelessly old-fashioned" when they worry about a daughter who isn't as "mature" as she thinks. If your guy is really straight, he'd make an effort to confince your folks he's no threat. I doubt that he has even tried. . .nor will he, so long as you keep meeting him on the sly. Don't! — HELEN

RAP:

"Martin," who suffered out gym classes, could have been me in junior hi and high school. During those years I measured time by the next phys. ed. class — it was either "Thank God, three whole days without gym," or "In only two hours I'll be through P.E. class." Of course we only played football, basketball and baseball, the three sports with the least carry-over value for adult life.

Now I'm nearly 10 years away from school. At last the idea of exercise and athletic games doesn't seem repugnant, but I still tend to assume people will humiliate me for being clumsy.

I don't know what schools or parents can do about this, but it's true that gym classes can easily aggravate a personality problem. A diet of ridicule twice a week or more never helped anyone's ego! The poor athlete feels that his manhood is threatened and so he's cut off from his peers. — STEVE

(Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel — or both, in care of the Independent-Journal, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.)

INSIDE YOUR HOME

Less-Is-More Design Concept Fulfills Price, Beauty Needs

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY
(Distributed by General Features Corp.)

There's been a revival of the concept "less is more," and maybe it's coincidental to the whole 1930s-revisited thing we've been experiencing. Certainly the "less is more" idea has been around for centuries. Japanese artists have proved the validity of this philosophy through their judicious balance of filled and negative spaces.

But the "less is more" theory of the Bauhaus school of design in Germany didn't get a foothold in the home building and furnishings field until about 1923. During the 1930s, it became the most popular radical idea of architects, painters and designers. It was a natural rebellion against Victorianism. Now, its recurrent popularity may be a rebellion against affluence and the proliferation of decoration that abounds in the decorative arts.

WHILE IT can be interpreted to mean "less of everything is more," the term generally applies to design. For example, the simple yet unique bed and storage concept. The pieces shown are the drawing-board children of Milo Baughman, an American.

Baughman lives and works in the Provost, Utah, area where he has established a large design workshop. He frequently works in conjunction with a manufacturer, Thayer Coggin, Inc. of High Point, N.C. As a team, these two have similar goals: (1) to make contemporary furnishings that really solve the need of today's family, (2) to make that furniture as beautiful as possible, yet keep the price tag within a reasonable market area.

SOMETIMES BAUGHMAN'S ideas fulfill the two goals in the most direct way. A case in point is the furniture system shown. It is in fact a system — not just a group of pieces that don't relate. The design problem was to create more storage more conveniently for rooms that have less space. Instead of isolating the headboard and bed, Baughman's design team unified the bed with storage units. They thus eliminated nightstands, right? Yet they provided handy drawers at reasonable and reachable height.

They also remembered that it's nice to have a counter or shelf near the bed for such things as lamp, radio, clock, tissues, books. They also know that it's comfortable to do part of your dressing while sitting down. So they planned some bed-companion pieces that would hold bulkier items such as shoes and boots, plus hanging space for trousers, jackets, skirts and blouses.

Bias Evidence On Women Sought

Documented evidence of instances in which Marin women have been unfairly discriminated against in obtaining credit solely on the basis of their sex is being collected by the Marin Chapter of the National Organization for Women in cooperation with the Federal Trade Commission.

The FTC San Francisco Regional Office has requested that Marin NOW forward documented evidence of discrimination toward women in seeking credit because of marital status, sex or child-bearing capacity.

Deandra B. Kraus, FTC consumer protection specialist, said that areas of particular interest are:

1. Practices of mortgage companies of not considering the wife's portion of family income when determining credit to be extended in real estate purchases.

2. Practices of retail stores of not extending credit to women solely because they are divorced, separated or widowed even though the women have a reliable source of income and a sound credit history.

3. Practices of retail stores of not extending credit to married women who have reliable incomes of their own.

Hearings recently conducted by the National Commission on Consumer Finance in Washington, D.C., on women's credit problems indicated that creditors do not use the same criteria used for men when extending credit to women, the FTC regional office said.

The San Francisco FTC regional office is seeking to determine if the Federal Trade Commission Act can be applied to unfair practices in extension of credit to women.

Information which is well-documented and strongly indicates denial of credit solely on the basis of one's sex, martial status or childbearing capacity and not on financial criteria is being collected in written form by Marin NOW, P.O. Box 2924, San Rafael. Documentation will be forwarded by NOW to the Federal Trade Commission office.

Marin NOW also pointed out that AB 2031, currently before the state Senate Insurance and Financial Institutions Committee, would prohibit denial of credit to women solely on the basis of sex or marital status.

Dior Collection Is Shown At Embassy

At the French Embassy in Washington, D.C., Christian Dior's collection was presented as a ballet-fashion parade. One hundred fur designs were shown, with black and white the key colors.

The array of morning to evening furs included lynx, sable, Russian ermine, mink and seal. None of the rare furs was missing from the show, according to Women's Wear Daily.

Tip On Tile Avoids Mildew

To combat mildew which has discolored grouting in shower tile, make a thick paste of household bleach and baking soda.

The paste should be about the consistency of toothpaste, advises the Middlesex County Extension Service, and should be applied with a toothbrush. After scrubbing the area, rinse with clean water and wipe dry.

For further information and a booklet on "How to Prevent and Remove Mildew," write the Home Economics Department, Middlesex County Extension Service, 105 Everett St., Concord, Mass., 01742.

Blood Pressure Normal? Regular Checks Needed

I-J Special Report

Are you sure that your blood pressure is normal? It is estimated that as many as 20 million Americans have high blood pressure and only about one-quarter of this number are being treated for the condition.

Uncontrolled hypertension, the National Heart Institute warns, forces the heart to work harder, and may eventually cause stroke, heart attacks and heart failure. It can also cause serious damage to the kidneys and accelerate the development of atherosclerosis.

However, the NHI also states that hypertension, whether mild or severe, can be controlled by any of a number or combination of effective drugs.

THEREFORE, IT is important to have your blood pressure checked at regular intervals. An instrument called a sphygmomanometer is used which consists of an inflatable cuff attached to a mercury meter. This instrument measures the force exerted against the walls of the blood vessels by the blood flowing through them. Two numbers are recorded. The higher of the two, called the systolic, is determined when the heart is contracted. The second reading, the diastolic, is recorded when the heart is relaxed between beats. No one elevated reading is considered evidence of abnormal pressure.

Approximately 85 per cent of all elevated blood pressure cases are diagnosed as "essential hypertension" — i.e. persistent elevated readings that cannot be attributed to any specific organic cause.

Any of a number of factors may be involved in the development of the disorder and its various stages. Some medical authorities believe that hypertension may stem from "abnormal irritability of the central nervous system." Others have suggested that some malfunction of the kidneys or of certain endocrine glands may be involved. Most researchers agree that it may be an inherited trait. It has also been pointed out that it is often difficult to distinguish between genetic and environmental factors. The highly susceptible individual is usually tense and high strung.

Obesity is often associated with high blood pressure, and when an overweight patient is placed on a diet, his blood pressure may fall along with his weight. Restriction of salt intake is often a part of treatment for all hypertensive patients.

Mild hypertensives are sometimes given mild sedatives or tranquilizing drugs and or a diuretic — an agent to increase the kidney's excretion rate and reduce fluid retention by the body.

A brochure issued by the National Heart Institute explains that before the advent of effective blood-pressure drugs, hypertension was sometimes treated by surgery to sever nerve trunks whose fibers supplied the cardiovascular system — a procedure called "sympathectomy".

MODERN BLOOD-PRESSURE drugs permit achieving chemically the effect of sympathectomies. Before prescribing a specific medication, the physician considers the individual patient carefully. He may change the dosage or even the medication from time to time. A drug that helps one patient may produce an untoward reaction in another.

The earlier the disorder is detected, the better are the prospects of adverting or postponing the possible consequences of uncontrolled hypertension. Although the condition is easy for a physician to detect, many cases go untreated because hypertension may produce no obvious symptoms.

Appliance Lights Need Fixing

Unlike beautiful decor bulbs for a chandelier, a missing appliance light doesn't prompt one to go out and replace it. But you should, according to lighting and design director Sylvan Lumiere.

While appliance bulbs don't add beauty, they do serve an important function.

The oven light very well may be the most important. If it burns out, the quality of food won't be affected, of course. But it's difficult to distinguish between rare, medium and well-done if all you see when you poke your head in the oven is blackness. And, a well-lit oven will reduce the chances of accidental burns.

Don't forget to replace the light in your refrigerator when necessary. A midnight snacker who bites into a tomato instead of an apple has a right to be angry (even if he shouldn't be eating at that hour.)

The light on your sewing machine, though tiny, is important, too. It gives strong illumination for threading your machine, checking thread tension, etc. Though it's not the only light you'll need when combined with general lighting it provides that extra brightness so necessary for extremely close work.

Bra Makers Need To Study Customer's Voice

Brassiere manufacturers may not be reaching consumers with their promotional messages, according to a consumer panel discussion held in New York by Leber, Katz Partners, an advertising agency.

The consumers studied by the agency revealed they had no awareness of concepts currently being promoted by the industry, those of molded, seamless and halter construction.

Laurel Cutler, vice president of marketing planning for the advertising firm concluded, "While bra advertizing has improved sharply in the last 10 years, I suspect that bra manufacturers are talking and listening to themselves, instead of their customers."

Two-Weeks Vacation Pack Rules

I-J Special Report

LOS ANGELES — To pack for a two-weeks vacation, use only a 24-inch pullman bag and a companion cosmetic case, according to Darlene Fuentes, manager of hostess training for an airline.

Place extra shoes heel-to-toe at bottom of case next to hinges. Use space in shoes for small fragile items wrapped in tissue paper or rolled hose. Keep shoes in a plastic bag to keep them from getting other clothes dirty.

Take three sets of lingerie, one to wear, one to wash and one for space. Fold each set lengthwise in thirds and roll top to bottom. Also fold and roll items like robe and nightgown. Place rolled items in bottom of case, cushioning small items like a travel clock, sewing kit or traveling iron.

Take along an extra plastic bag for wet swimming gear that needs packing while on the move.

Your dresses and pantsuits should be the last things packed. Be sure all buttons and zippers are fastened. Place clothes face down and fold lengthwise in thirds. Place longest dress in bag first, face down, shoulders in one side of case, skirt extending over the other side. Continue this way, alternating sides. Pack your other clothes and then fold your dresses, coats and skirts back into the suitcase, alternating from side to side.

Costs Soar On Fire Station

Mill Valley's hopes of constructing a new fire station for $275,000 seem to have gone up in smoke.

The city council heard the bad news last night from architect Matthew R. Mills, who said a "bare bones" fire station on the selected site would cost about $350,000 or $75,000 more than the voters authorized in a bond election in April.

Mills also told the council that the proposed site, a triangular-shaped parcel at the intersection of Roque Moraes Drive and an extended Sycamore Avenue, was subject to minor landslides.

On top of construction costs, said Mills, the proposed building site would require the city to lay out $16,000 for additional ground stabilization work and $22,000 for a temporary access road. Presently, there is no access road to the East Mill Valley site.

After adding in architect's fees and contingency fees, Mills arrived at a total of $350,000 for the entire project.

Councilman Robert E. Capron, expressing the dismay of his fellow councilmen, said, "I don't see where we're going to get an extra $75,000." He suggested the council take no action on the expensive project until Proposition 14, the Watson property tax initiative, is determined.

Mills said the council might consider swapping some of its land for a privately-owned parcel with an easier building site.

Two locations — the community recreation center site and a parcel near the Mobil Service Station on East Blithedale Avenue at Camino Alto — were mentioned in the brief discussion, but no decision was made.

City Engineer Stanley M. Bala said the original site selection committee made a thorough exploration of several building sites, but nothing available to the city was better than the proposed site on Roque Moraes.

He said he doubted another search would be very productive. Though it didn't reject the proposed site, the council disagreed with Bala and asked the fire station building committee to undertake a new hunt for a more suitable building site.

Jung Film To Be Shown

The full-length color movie, "The Story of Carl Gustav Jung" will be shown at College of Marin's Olney Hall on Saturday at 8 p.m.

Peter Georgi, an instructor at Dominican College who is organizing the event, said it will benefit the Maharishi International University.

There also will be a screening of a rare 20-minute filmed interview with Jung, and the program will include a question and answer period with Dr. Howard Levene, a Jungian analyst and professor of psychiatry at the University of California at Berkeley.

The Jung movie was shown at the college on Oct. 26 in the college's own film series, and was a sellout event.

Savings Bonds

WASHINGTON (UPI)—More than $56 billion worth of U.S. Savings Bonds are currently outstanding, says the American Bankers Association. Treasury officials expect at least $125 million new bonds will be issued this year.

Family Asks $250,000 In Death After A Fall

The family of a Corte Madera man who died while hospitalized for injureis suffered in a fall on a walkway yesterday filed a $250,000 damage suit naming two companies.

The suit filed in Marin Superior Court by San Francisco attorney James C. Purcell asks the damages for Viola C. Rentz, widow of John W. Rentz, and her son, Charles, plus $10,231 medical and funeral costs.

Rentz, a Corte Madera builder died May 13 at the age of 81. He had been hospitalized since April 7 with a broken hip suffered in a fall at a Larkspur construction site, according to Purcell.

The suit names Shareholders Capital Programs Inc., builders of the walkway, Disco Wonderworld at 1 Larkspur Plaza, site of the walkway and the Larkspur Isle apartments.

The Rentz family was deprived of his "society, comfort, protection, services and support" because of the "careless and negligent" construction of the walkway, according to the suit.

Thieves Strike

Tools valued at $1,075 were stolen over the weekend at Western Motors, 1221 Petaluma Boulevard North, Petaluma police reported. Officers said a portion of the fence had been cut in order to gain entry to the service area.

Sambo's Restaurant Entry To Be Fought

Sambo's restaurant, a nationwide chain, plans to bring its pancakes to Miller Avenue in Mill Valley on an open parcel just east of the Malugani Tire Center.

Expressing alarm at the proposal, the Mill Valley City Council last night indicated it will move to block the restaurant.

Councilman Robert E. Burton suggested the council adopt an emergency ordinance granting itself broader control than it now exercises over uses in commercially zoned property.

When City Atty. Leland H. Jordan said he couldn't draft an adequate emergency ordinance during the meeting, Burton agreed to postpone the council's consideration of the ordinance until Nov. 15.

Agreeing with Burton on the need for prompt action, Mayor Jean S. Barnard said she thinks all five councilmen are opposed to the restaurant.

The city has long resisted the entrance of national chains, particularly those with standardized architecture which successive city councils have declared tend to destroy the city's individuality, reducing it in appearance to conformity with countless other communities throughout the nation.

The restaurant chain, headquartered in Santa Barbara, has submitted plans to build a one-story restaurant occupying 3,900 square feet at 501 Miller Avenue.

The project will cost $135,000, according to plans filed with the City of Mill Valley.

Those plans will be reviewed by the architectural advisory committee at 8 p.m. tomorrow. According to zoning administrator Howard R. McGill, the use of the land as a restaurant conforms to the zoning and does not require Sambo's to seek a use permit.

Under existing ordinances the application would not be reviewed by the planning commission or city council unless the architectural advisory committee's ruling is appealed, said McGill.

Mill Valley Softens Rapid Transit Stand

The Mill Valley City Council last night reviewed a proposed agreement between Mill Valley and the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District which would theoretically guarantee the city a role in planning any future rapid transit use of the Northwest Pacific Railroad right-of-way.

In the past, the city has flatly opposed any transit use along the right-of-way, but last night, the council's opposition seemed to soften.

The council reviewed a draft agreement, prepared by Marin County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney, which provides that Mill Valley and the transit district will "jointly determine" how the right-of-way shall be improved.

After agreeing that the wording of the agreement was too vague, the council asked its staff to strengthen Mill Valley's guarantee of a role in future planning.

The bridge district intends to apply to the federal government for funds to purchase the right-of-way before the land reverts to its original owners. On previous occasions, the Mill Valley Council has voted to oppose the loan application because it doesn't want any rapid transit systems running down the right-of-way near the Mill Valley Middle School.

The council took no action on the substance of the agreement last night and decided to look at it again at its next regular meeting.

The Mill Valley City Council Also:

MONTE VISTA — Ordered George Gordon, owner of a home at 160 Monte Vista which was partially destroyed years ago in a landslide, to abate the nuisance within 45 days or have the city remove the dangerous structure.

APPEAL — Upheld the planning commission's denial of Dr. J. H. O. Clayton's application to rezone his property, extending from 116 Miller Avenue to 217 Ethel Avenue, from a single-family to a multiple-dwelling zone.

MILLER AVENUE — Ruled that the recently approved Miller Avenue improvement project will have a significant effect on the city's environment and instructed its city staff to prepare an environmental impact statement on the project.

TENNIS — Reduced weekend tennis fees from $2 to $1 per court for doubles players, while maintaining the fee at $2 per court for singles players. The new fees, which will be instituted March 1, 1973, are designed to encourage residents to play doubles on weekends for a fuller utilization of the courts.

EAST BLITHEDALE — Passed the first reading of an ordinance that would prohibit parking on the north side of East Blithedale Avenue, between Alta Vista Avenue and Camino Alto, between 3 a.m. and 6 a.m.

WINWOOD LANE — Adopted a resolution, at the request of property owner Peter Haywood, restricting Winwood Lane to bicycle and pedestrian traffic. The request was opposed by a few neighbors who said the action would prevent any future vehicular access to their properties off Winwood Lane.

BIDS — Approved specifications and called for bids on a sewer line replacement project in Sutton Manor and a drainage line replacement project on Hilarita Avenue. City Engineer Stanley M. Bala estimated the costs of the projects at $5,475 and $10,500 respectively.

SEWAGE — Announced that a grant from the environmental protection administration to help Mill Valley upgrade its existing sewage plant will total $122,370.

SHELTER RIDGE — Authorized city staff to extend grading permits for Shelter Ridge development for the permanent alignment of Seaver Drive after ruling that the unfinished grading — which represents only two per cent of the entire grading work — will have a trivial impact on the environment.

BUS DEPOT — Instructed City Mgr. William H. Cunningham to quickly refurbish and replace the wooden benches which have been temporarily removed from in front of the Mill Valley Bus Depot.

$4,800 Is Collected For Coma Victim

A benefit horse show in behalf of Leonard Strikker, the Tamalpais Valley horseman who has been in a coma since a riding accident in June 1971, cleared $4,800 after expenses, show chairman Richard Hardy of Petaluma reported yesterday.

The show, held Oct. 28 and 29 in Santa Rosa, attracted more than 250 horses with almost 1,200 class entries. The competition ran until 1 a.m. Monday, contestants reported.

Strikker, now 20, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Strikker of 302 Bell Lane, Tamalpais Valley. He was injured when his horse fell while he was rounding up cattle near Calistoga. He was a widely known, prize winning competition rider, who bought his first horse when he was 9 years old, from earnings on an Independent-Journal paper route.

Among the Marin County and Southern Sonoma winners in the Strikker benefit horse show were:

Verl Norton of San Jose, second place high point senior rider, will sponsor a similar benefit show in San Jose Nov. 25-26.

Tobacco Growing Is Nationalized

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — President Luis Echeverria has nationalized tobacco production in Mexico, forcing foreign owned cigarette makers to buy from a government monopoly instead of directly from farmers.

The measure does not expropriate any foreign properties or companies. It takes thousands of tobacco farm workers—who complained they were being exploited—off the payrolls of the companies.

S.F. Airport Boss To Quit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The director of San Francisco International Airport, James K. Carr, was named Monday as director of aviation for Sacramento County.

Carr, 58, a native of Redding, came to San Francisco in 1964 as general manager of the city's Public Utilities Department. During the past two years as head of the airport, he was responsible for the first master plan for future development.

Carr said he would probably begin his new job in Sacramento next January at a salary of $41,600 per year, the same as he earned in San Francisco.

A Deadlock In Dock Talks

NEW YORK (UPI) —Negotiations between the Pacific Maritime Association and the Masters, Mates and Pilots Association broke off Monday night when a deadlock developed. The MMPA has been on strike for 12 days on the West Coast.

A union spokesman said negotiations were suspended after PMA negotiators attempted to reintroduce issues that already had been settled. He said the impasse centered on the issues of job security and seniority.

Packard Takes Hospital Tests

STANFORD (UPI) —Former Deputy Defense Secretary David Packard, 60, was undergoing tests today at the Stanford Medical Center's Hoover Pavilion, hospital officials said.

Packard, chairman of the board and a founder of Hewlett-Packard Co., Palo Alto, Calif., was admitted to the hosoital Monday for the tests.

Officials refused to disclose the nature of the tests. They did say he was not suffering from "a critical illness or an emergency."

REDEVELOPMENT PLAN — The Corte Madera Redevelopment Area plan by consultants Sedway and Cooke envisions a 72-acre, $35 million shopping center (A), continued auto agency, professional and industrial use of (C-1) and (C-2) — along with a new freeway interchange at (C-2) — and a possible marina at (M). Wildlife areas, bicycle-pedestrian paths and public open space would rim the 225 acres (B) east of the Northwestern Pacific rail line, which is suggested for rapid transit use with a station at (S). Existing salt marsh and wildlife areas in area (A) would be relocated somewhere in the circular area at the lower right corner of parcel (B).

Corte Madera Gets First Look At Development Plan

By JEFF GREER

The Corte Madera Town Council and a full-house audience got their first look last night at the proposed master plan for the 458-acre Corte Madera Redevelopment Area project east of Highway 101.

The plan envisions not only the long-announced, $35 million regional shopping center on a 72-acre parcel opposite the existing Corte Madera Shopping Center, but also extensive wildlife habitats and public open space on the shore of San Francisco Bay.

Thomas Cooke of the consulting firm of Sedway and Cooke of San Francisco presented the plan to the council, which was sitting as the Corte Madera Redevelopment Agency.

The council voted 4-1 to ask the town planning commission's comments on the plan, and set a public hearing for 7:30 p.m. Dec. 11 both on the plan and on a report on the redevelopment area's impact on Marin's economy, transportation and environmental factors.

Councilman Robert J. Flahive voted against sending the master plan to the commission. He said the action in effect asked the planners to endorse the plan as presented by Cooke, without the council taking time to read the 24-page document.

Unveiling of the master plan followed a two and one-half hour debate over the environmental report, as the council held a public hearing on boundaries for the impact survey.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney and spokesmen for local districts had been expected to protest the effect of the proposed redevelopment project on tax revenues. However, they withheld their fire for the Dec. 11 meeting.

Maloney questioned whether Sedway and Cooke could prepare an objective environmental impact report on their own master plan for the redevelopment project. Cooke replied, simply, "yes."

The consultant agreed to Maloney's request that the impact study "envision repayment to adversely affected districts." The county counsel said he was representing the Marin Community College and Larkspur-Corte Madera school districts.

Corte Madera residents complained that Cooke was not expected to complete the environmental impact survey until the first week in December, which would not give the public time to review it before the hearing. Several homeowners asked postponement of the Dec. 11 session.

Mayor Holmes S. Norville countered that, "we are being pushed. The redevelopment law has ground rules that hang on Jan. 1 in terms of taxing ability."

Developer Ernest J. Hahn is expected to begin filling and foundation work on the massive shopping center in 1973, and the redevelopment area would lose any property assessment increases on the improvements if it is not fully formed by Dec. 31, Norville said.

Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels noted that Hahn had received a filling permit only from the city so far. Bartels predicted the Department of the Interior and Army Corps of Engineers soon would approve fill plans for the property.

Philip O. Sasso of 142 Yolo Street, complained that Corte Madera's simultaneous work on the redevelopment area and the town's general plan revision — also being done by Sedway and Cooke — "muddled up" the town's future and created "a mixed bag of worms."

Norville replied that the redevelopment plan was "difficult to separate" from the townwide general plan revision. He stressed that the city long had sought a regional shopping center as the best way to meet growing town tax needs for recreation and other public services.

Joel Shawn of 219 Baltimore Court also complained of simultaneous hurrying of the redevelopment and general plan. "The wedding got started a little late, so you're going to speed up 'Here Comes The Bride'," he charged.

"I left my shotgun at home, but we won't have the dowry if the marriage isn't before Jan. 1," Norville replied, laughing.

"Make the marriage more important than the dowry," Shawn urged.

Town Atty. Albert B. Bianchi explained that state law did not provide for a citizens' vote on the redevelopment issue, in response to several questions from the audience of 45 persons.

During the formal hearing on the environmental impact report the council adopted Cooke's recommendations for the survey's boundaries in terms of economic, transportation, pollution and other effects of the regional shopping center and adjoining redevelopment.

Cooke said the economic impact area should include all of Marin and the San Francisco central business district. The transportation impact could be limited to the Highway 101 corridor and portions of the Ross Valley within 10 minutes' drive of Corte Madera, the consultant said. Water pollution should be surveyed both in northern San Francisco Bay and outside the Golden Gate as far away as Bolinas and San Mateo County, he suggested, while air pollution impact would be involved only in the Larkspur-Corte Madera air basin.

The study will include a survey of housing needed by shopping center workers as far away as Novato.

The redevelopment area's impact on wildlife and open space areas can be limited to the Corte Madera and Larkspur area, he said.

Turning to the master plan itself, Cooke said the shopping center should be subject to rigid architectural controls, that most parking should be inside structures rather than on acres of asphalt, and that existing wildlife areas in ponds between Highway 101 and the Northwestern Pacific Railroad should be replaced with suitable refuges along the bay shore.

Most of the 225 acres east of the shopping center should be reserved for wildlife, salt marsh and public open space, with bicycle and pedestrian paths but no roads for autos, he suggested. However, residential development up to 16 units per acre, or office and professional use might be permitted on part of the land if ecological priorities were heeded, he said.

Many pages of the redevelopment area plan dealt with the agency's powers to control land use, condemn property from uncooperative owners, and give preference to business firms displaced by reconstruction.

Copies of the redevelopment area plan will be available at Town Hall and in the Corte Madera Library, Bartels announced.

Voting Panel To Observe Processing

A 10-member election observer panel planning committee will observe ballot processing at the Marin Civic Center tonight.

The committee observed election activities last November and during the June primaries. Its purpose is to help prevent errors and delays in vote counting in the punch card computer system.

Committee observations to date haven't disclosed any major discrepancies, according to chairman Susan Stompe of the League of Women Voters of Central Marin.

Members observe data processing procedures, ballot counting, processing, inspection, sealing, storage and transportation and absentee vote processing.

The committee, appointed by County Clerk George H. Gnoss consists of Mrs. Stompe, Lotte Schiller, Democratic Party; Bert D. Inman, Republican Party; Jane Knappe, League of Women Voters of Southern Marin; Phyllis Berger, League of Women Voters of Southern Marin; Mary Henry, Democratic Party; Bunnie Schnurer, League of Women Voters of Southern Marin; Lois Sherbert, League of Women Voters of Central Marin; Peter C. Meyer, county elections officer; and Judi Swaney, secretary, county elections office.

The committee is required by rules established by the State Commission on Voting Machines and Vote Tabulating Devices which were effective Sept. 1, 1971.

The committee will make its final report and recommendations Nov. 14.

Study Shows Cities' Disputes On Boundary

A preliminary report on the future boundaries of Marin's 11 cities indicates only two areas are in dispute between cities.

The report, a part of the county's "spheres of influence study," shows Mill Valley and Tiburon in their perennial struggle over the Strawberry area, and San Rafael, Larkspur and Corte Madera in a three-way tug-of-war over San Quentin Peninsula.

The Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission, which ordered the study in August, will review the preliminary report tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the civic center.

The study is required under state law and seeks to establish the maximum service area for each city based on projected population growth and land use.

Besides showing areas of contention between cities, the preliminary report notes that neither Mill Valley nor Sausalito is interested in absorbing Marin City — a predominantly black, low-income area of Southern Marin.

McGovern Loses Out In Mock Election At School

The predicted youth vote for Sen. George S. McGovern failed to materialize — at least at Davidson Middle School in San Rafael, where students yesterday held a mock election.

The sixth, seventh and eighth-graders also took positions usually considered at opposite ends of the political spectrum — by narrow margins they approved both the marijuana and death penalty propositions.

Possibly following the political views of their parents, the youngsters gave President Nixon a clear majority of 334 votes with McGovern receiving 209.

Minor candidates Benjamin Spock of the Peace and Freedom Party and John G. Schmitz, representing the American Independent Party, received three votes each.

Proposition 20, which would create commissions to regulate coastal development, was approved overwhelmingly by the students on a 430 to 118 vote.

They turned down, however, Proposition 18, the obscenity measure, 395 to 154.

The student vote on the marijuana proposition was yes, 285; no, 280. Restoration of the death penalty was approved 286 to 261 votes.

The students did not vote on all measures on today's ballot. Among the propositions not considered were 14, the Watson Amendment, and 22, the farm labor measure.

Firemen's Ball To Be Saturday Night

The Tiburon Volunteer Firemen's Association will sponsor the 22nd annual firemen's ball at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Corinthian Yacht Club.

The dance will feature the music of the Joe Marcellino Band and will commemorate the volunteer firemen's 31st year of service to the community.

Proceeds from the event go to support the activities of the volunteer firemen.

Gnoss Son Working As A Police Cadet

Kenneth Gnoss, 20-year-old son of County Clerk George H. Gnoss of Novato, is working as a part-time police cadet at the Novato Police Department.

Gnoss, a student at the University of San Francisco and Indian Valley Colleges, was graduated from San Marin High School in 1970.

Corte Madera Backs Span's Rail Proposal

The Corte Madera Town Council last night again endorsed Golden Gate Bridge District efforts to preserve the main Northwestern Pacific right-of-way through the town for future transit use.

But the council refused to give the same blessing to bridge district aspirations to take over the now idle "detour" line that runs westward into Larkspur, then loops south to Mill Valley through a tunnel.

Councilman Harold B. Wagstaff said he objected to "the bridge district trying to secure it for something more ominous than a bicycle path."

Other councilmen agreed that running buses on the right-of-way would be offensive to residents of "the old center of town." Councilman Edward W. Colthurst suggested the town investigate obtaining a lease on the right of way until the county and bridge district complete work on long-range transportation plans.

Mill Valley already has opposed the bridge district plans to seek a federal grant for purchase or lease of the detour line, Colthurst noted.

Town Council Also:

ENVIRONMENTAL — Voted 3-2 against Councilman Herber C. Leney's request to confider amendments to the environmental impact report resolution adopted two weeks ago. Only Councilman Robert J. Flahive backed Leney's motion; the rest of the council agreed to take up the issue Nov. 20, in light of new legal information.

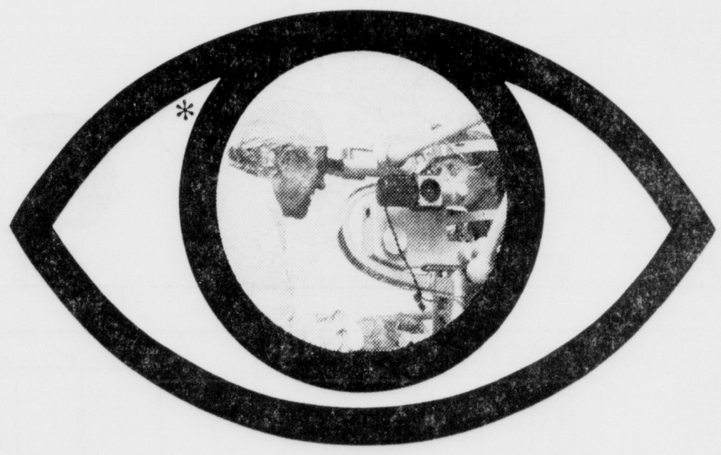
BUS COMPLAINT — Referred a protest from Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Lubamersky against the bus routing over Tamal Vista Boulevard, to the Golden Gate Bridge District.

MORATORIUM — Voted 4-1 to extend the city's building and rezoning freeze — which was to have expired this week —another four months. Councilman Wagstaff objected this would only encourage planning consultants Sedway and Cooke to further delay completion of town general plan updating.

REVENUE SHARING — Approved creation of a committee consisting of Mayor Holmes S. Norville, Councilman Colthurst, Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels and Finance Director Frank Bigley as a committee to recommend priorities for use of federal revenue sharing funds expected to begin in December.

BARBIER — Adjourned in tribute to the late San Rafael City Councilman Harry A. Barbier. The next council meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 20.

You may never need this new argon gas laser, but it's nice to know it's there.



There's more to Blue Cross than meets the eye.

This high-powered blue-green light can focus to fifty one-millionths of a meter to seal off leaking blood vessels that impair sight.

Older models used red light that was reflected by blood pigment. The blue-green is absorbed making the procedure faster, simpler and safer. And even though you may never need it, it can be available to you, and Blue Cross can help pick up your tab.

And that's just one important way we serve you. Because sophisticated equipment, like the argon gas laser, may cost hospitals several thousands of dollars. And increase the cost of medical care. But when you're a Blue Cross member, your hospital protection automatically expands to help you meet this new need.

And paying many of your hospital bills, or choosing your own physician, are other "every day" benefits that make Blue Cross membership so valuable.

ISN'T GOOD SERVICE WONDERFUL?
Our service is "late" but nice. Marin commuters have found it very convenient that our service department is now open till 7 pm. Monday thru Friday. In most cases we can give your VW a maintenance or tune-up by 7 pm if you come in by 5 pm. Call our private service line 388-5230 and give us a vote for "late" service.

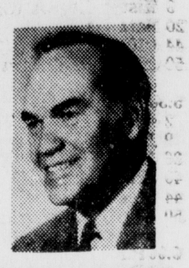
HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Gout Painful, But It's Preferred To Other Forms Of Arthritis



Gout is painful, but the disease is preferred to other forms of arthritis. We say this mainly because many good remedies are available to keep the condition under control. Allopurinol, for example, has been used safely and successfully for more than five years. Excellent alternatives, such as probenecid, phenylbutazone, and colchicine, are available.

In this inherited metabolic disease, higher than normal levels of uric acid form in the blood. The latter chemical normally is produced in the body as an end-product of purine metabolism. When too much is produced, the uric acid crystallizes and urate crystals are deposited in the tissues, especially those of the joints and skin. Gouty arthritis is the result.

VARIOUS REMEDIES work in different ways. Probenecid, for example, hastens the excretion of uric acid in the urine. Allopurinol works by blocking the action of an enzyme in the final production of uric acid. It interferes with the action of the liver in converting hypoxanthine to uric acid. As a result, purines in the diet end up as hypoxanthine, which is more or less harmless and easily eliminated in the urine. Allopurinol goes a step further in that it encourages urate crystals and uric acid kidney stones to dissolve.

COLCHICINE, ONE of the oldies, relieves the pain and swelling of gouty arthritis, but its exact mechanism is not known. It does not lower the uric acid level. On the other hand, gout no longer is regarded as a disease of the rich or gluttonous. At one time, there was a relationship between gout and affluence in that only the wealthy could afford meats and other pruine-rich foods which elevated their uric acid. Alcohol is, perhaps, next to food, causative in its ability to induce gout.

REACTION TO STRESS

T. S. B. writes: Every time I take a civil service exam my blood pressure rises. At other times it is normal. Is there any cure for this development?

REPLY

No, but it can be controlled. You are a hyperreactor to stress and your blood pressure goes up whenever you are emotionally upset, tense, anxious, or excited, regardless of where you are or what you are doing. You have or will have hypertension. Therefore, learn how to avoid unpleasant situations, unusual stress, overfatigue, and too many stimulants, such as tea, coffee and tobacco.

REACTION TO GRIEF

Mrs. P. writes: If a woman suddenly loses her husband, is it natural for her to have pain in the chest?

REPLY

Yes, particularly if he died of a heart attack. This reaction is due to apprehension, grief, or unusual fatigue. This woman ought to be examined by her physician. If the heart is normal, a tranquilizer may be prescribed.

SNACKS FOR GROWING BOYS

A reader writes: What is the best between-meal snack for growing boys?

REPLY

Milk plus raw vegetables, fruits, cereals, cookies, or anything that is easy to serve and will not disrupt the household schedule.

Boggs' Name On The Ballot

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Congressmen Hale Boggs and Nick Begich have been missing since their plane disappeared in Alaska Oct. 16, but the names of both will appear on ballots today.

Both men are expected to be re-elected—Boggs in his Louisiana district and Begich in Alaska.

Boggs, the House majority leader, was helping Begich campaign when their plane disappeared on a flight from Anchorage to Juneau. An extensive search has failed to find a trace of the missing aircraft.

Their fates remain undetermined, and their names cannot legally be removed from the ballots.

Allende Plans Visit To U.N.

SANTIAGO (UPI) —President Salvador Allende plans a 12-day visit to Mexico, the United Nations, Moscow and Havana beginning Nov. 20, sources at the La Moneda presidential palace said today.

With Chile returning to normal after a wave of strikes that cost the nation $200 million, the Marxist president is planning a journey lasting 12 days, the sources said.

Plans for the journey moved ahead after the government Monday night lifted the state of siege which had placed 20 of Chile's 25 provinces under military control during the strike.

Cambodia Reds Use Heavy Guns

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Cambodian Communist gunners launched a series of heavy artillery assaults today against government positions along a 35-mile stretch of embattled Highway 2, the high command reported.

The heaviest attacks were made against the provincial capital of Takeo, 55 miles south of Phnom Penh, where at least four persons were killed and 10 others wounded by a barrage of recoiless rifle fire.

State High Court Stands Pat On Impact Ruling

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — California Supreme Court today declined to reconsider its decision that private construction projects are covered by the state's 1970 environmental quality act.

The court turned down a request for a rehearing of its Sept. 21 decision requiring "environmental impact statements" on all significant building projects.

The court ruled in the case of Friends of Mammoth vs. Mono County Supervisors that the county officials must get environmental impact reports if projects by private builders at Mammoth Lakes will have a significant effect on the environment.

The rehearing was requested by Mono County officials, the developer and State Attorney General Evelle Younger.

The high court's action was a 6-1 decision with Justice Raymond Sullivan dissenting as he did in the original ruling.

The court also declined to delay the effective date of its ruling, which has been bitterly criticized by the construction industry.

Rites For Actor Scheduled Today

BOISE, Idaho (UPI) — Private graveside services were to be held today for British-born character actor Reginald Owen, whose American career spanned a half century and ended as it began—on the Broadway stage.

The dashing, grey-haired Owen died Sunday after a brief illness at the age of 85. He was visiting his stepson here when he was stricken.

Owen, who began acting in London at 16, came to America and made his first stage appearance in 1924, and his last in August of this year when he played a New York revival of "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum."

Ford Reapplies For Price Boost

DETROIT (UPI) —Ford Motor Co., turned down on an amended price hike request to the Price Commission last September, has reapplied for its original increase.

Ford asked the commission Monday for an average increase of $92 on its 1973 cars and trucks.

The second-largest automaker submitted a request for an average of $59 per vehicle increase in August, but was refused.

CBS Election Coverage Set

NEW YORK (UPI) —A four-day old walkout by cameramen, technicians and engineers against the Columbia Broadcasting System will not affect the network's coverage of election returns tonight, CBS said Monday.

A CBS spokesman said the program would "go on as usual," with supervisory personnel continuing to fill in for striking members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

The IBEW went on strike Friday, and no contract talks between CBS and the union have been held since.

Comedian Bishop Stages A Rescue

MARINA DEL REY, Calif. (UPI) —Comedian Joey Bishop was credited by the Coast Guard today with rescuing a man whose boat was sinking, the second such rescue by Bishop in three weeks.

Bishop, cruising three miles off shore in his yacht Sonuvagun II," sighted the partially submerged sailboat in the fog and hauled aboard the pilot, Michael Geller, who was clinging to it. Bishop, a member of the Coast Guard Auxiliary, came across a disabled boat carrying five people three weeks ago, and towed it to shore.

No New Trial For Barker

MIAMI (UPI) —Bernard Barker, one of the men charged in connection with the Watergate case, has been denied a request for a new trial on charges of misusing his notary public seal on a $25,000 Republican campaign fund check.

Defense attorneys asked Criminal Court Judge Paul Baker for a new trial Monday on grounds Barker was denied a fair trial because of the widespread publicity the case received "prior to and during the trial."

Baker, however, denied the motion and another motion which alleged the original charge was not correctly filed.

The Ear And The Kidney

CLEVELAND (AP) — The size and shape of a child's ears may be a clue to the state of his kidney, according to a University of Texas urologist.

Dr. Paul C. Peters told a meeting of urologists here that ears and kidneys reach key stages of development at abut the same time in an embryo.

"Funny-looking" ears can mean the kidney also is abnormal and possibly defective, he said.

Consul Dies— Bombing Victim

ZARAGOZA, Spain (UPI) — French Consul Roger Tur, 62, died today of the injuries suffered when terrorists bombed his office five days ago, a hospital spokesman said.

Tur suffered third-degree burns over 40 per cent of his body. Three attackers tied and daubed him with red paint, then set fire to the consulate with an incendiary bomb.

Police announced Saturday they detained the three alleged attackers, all of them university students who said they belonged to a leftwing splinter ground calling itself the Collective of the Hammer and Sickle.

In leaflets scattered on the campus of Zaragoza University, the group said the consulate was attacked as a reprisal for a recent French crackdown on Basque separatist activists who fled from Spain to France.

'Bonanza' To Leave TV In January

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —"Bonanza," the second longest running television western series, honored survivor of the long gone era when horse operas dominated the home screen, has been cancelled.

The seemingly interminable saga of Ben Cartwright and his sons, holding together a giant ranch on the shores of Lake Tahoe, will broadcast its last chapter in January, NBC announced Monday.

The show has run for 14 years. It may be the most widely syndicated television series ever made, airing in almost every country that broadcasts.

The show suffered a big loss this year with the sudden death of Dan Blocker, who played "Hoss" Cartwright, Ben's bear-like, good hearted son.

A shift in time and stiffer competition finished off the show.

"I was frankly surprised the network decided to continue the show without Dan, I thought it would be over then," said Lorne Green, who played the patriarch of the Ponderosa. "We all knew it would have to come to an end eventually, but I had no idea it would be this soon."

He was told Friday that he should attend a meeting Monday, Greene said, but was unable to make it. Monday he learned it was to announce that the episode now being filmed will be the last.

With the death of "Bonanza," only two westerns remain, the comparatively recent entry of "Alias Smith and Jones," and the daddy of them all — "Gunsmoke," the longest running western, now in its 18th year. It appears safe, tucked up high in the ratings.

Getting the NBC axe with Bonanza were "The Bold Ones," "Rod Serling's Night Gallery" and "Banyon."

Replacing the venerable western will be an "NBC Tuesday Night Movie," the network announced.

The other original star of "Bonanza," Michael Landon, who in recent years has been writing and directing some episodes as well as playing "Little Joe," was not available for comment.

In its first decade "Bonanza" was a fixture in the top 10 rated shows, but it began to slip in the past few seasons.

With the loss of Blocker, the show was shifted from its traditional Sunday night time spot to Tuesday night ("with very little publicity about the change," complained Greene in looking back) where it ran into a barrage of hot competition: The new "Maude" series by the makers of the super-success "All in the Family, the popular "Hawaii Five-O," and ABC's Tuesday night movie.

License Fees Distributed

Distribution of money from license fees, distributed semi-annually by the Alcoholic Beverage Control, was announced today.

FISH AND GAME

Successful Fishing For Salmon, Bass

By AL GIDDINGS

Fish, fish, fish. Almost everyone wants to show me or tell me about their fishing exploits of the past few weeks. For instance, three of the Woodacre firehouse gang just returned from a 12-day fly fishing outing at the Smith River.

The trio — Marty Medin, Pete Valconesi and Steve Truttman — had a fly fisherman's ball. They landed 14 salmon, but what salmon! Marty landed five which weighed in at 39, 37, 35, 34, and 32 pounds. Pete got seven with his top fish at 36 pounds, 2 ounces, and Steve, who left after seven days, landed two, one of them a 37 pound, 4 ounce fish. Marty said the first four days he couldn't get a hit, then his first fish was the big one, 2 ounces over the 39-pound mark.

IMAGINE CASTING a fly from dawn to dark for four days without a hit, but that's what it takes to be successful. Marty said he saw one landed on a fly that hit the scales at over 50 pounds. They use 12-pound test leaders, so it all seems impossible.

Then Vince Biagini, fishing outside the "Gate" last Friday, landed a 56-pound salmon for the biggest salmon taken this year. He was trolling off Rocky Point near Stinson Beach. He wasn't on a party boat, so Stanley Budd's fish, a 44½-pounder, still leads the party boat derby in the Bay Area this year. The salmon season outside the "Gate" closes Nov. 12.

POP HANSON of San Rafael, aboard the LO HAT, also connected with his biggest fish of the season — a nice 36½-pounder — also out by Rocky Point this past week. Bob Locki, Sam Knoles and Harold Lansing, all fishing from the LO HAT with "Pop", had to pay off $1 each for that fish. Then Lansing had a bet going for two bucks with Sam that the fish would weigh more than 35 pounds, which it did, so Sam had to cough up $3. They say when he opened his wallet some bug catchers in the area collected some moths never seen before.

Out at White House Pool in Paper Mill Creek and vicinity probably 100 salmon, mostly grilse, have been taken over the past month. Even my son, Andy, nailed a 10 and a five-pounder. I've also noted that Carlo Nerviani and his son Ron have scored with good fish. I even checked Ralph Chatoian with a good one. He finally made it!

I TALKED to Gene McDermott of the Rivers End Resort at the mouth of the Russian River near Jenner and he said people drifting anchovies about three feet below a cork float in the lagoon (when the bar is open) just can't miss. Nice fish too —all silvers.

The stripers too have been in a hitting mood. ill Boyle of the Loch Lomond Bait Barge in San Rafael can't keep enough shiners in stock. Fishermen using shiners have been taking limits daily at most of the S.F.-San Pablo Bay hot-spots. It's the incoming tide at The Sisters, the outgoing at The Brothers, incoming at the rockpile near Alcatraz, and the outgoing at Yellow Bluff, Lime Point and the South Tower.

DUCK HUNTING has been slow in the bay, though the scullers are taking limits of bluies. Here's one for you: Norm Quadros and Jim De La Montanya, both experienced locals, tried the flats off the Sonoma shoreline. They stayed too long and missed the outgoing tide so stayed stranded in the mud until 7 p.m. They got one teal!

With trout plants made the past two weeks in Lagunitas and Phoenix reservoirs, Paul Bates of Woodacre says, "It's the best trout fishing I've had in years!"

I RECEIVED a release from the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife that reads: "The new federal regulations have nullified California laws and regulations which allowed California (scrub) jays and Steller's (crested) jays to be taken at any time. Jays may now be taken only under a Federal permit. Persons suffering damage to property will need a federal depradation permit to kill jays; scientists, researchers and students will need both federal and state collecting permits to take jays."

Also, "crows and black-billed magpies may be taken at any time by landowners, tenants, or any other person whenever these birds are causing damage or are about to cause damage. The federal authorities intend their policy to be interpreted liberally, and that a hunter should be permitted to go afield and take crows at any time in agricultural areas where crows cause damage."

IN SEPTEMBER, there were 17,310 salmon taken by party boats in the Bay Area. Also 8,816 stripers and 42 sturgeon were caught.

The quarantine on mussels was lifted Oct. 31, but they are illegal to take in state parks, beaches, recreation areas, underwater parks, reserves, and national parks, monuments or seashores. This regulation closes the entire shoreline of Marin County from Bolinas along the entire coastline all the way to Tomales Bay State Park and includes, Stinson Beach State Park and Muir Beach. Mussel gathering in Marin looks to be a thing of the past under the present regulations.

Clough Chosen Top AAU Coach

TACOMA, Wash. (UPI) —Joe Clough, coach of the Olympic gold medalist boxer Ray Seals, has been told he is the national AAU coach of the year.

Clough received nine of 10 votes, the 10th going to Gene Cooper of Hamilton Air Force Base, who guided the fortunes of Hamilton's two bronze medal winners, Jesse Valdez and Ricky Carreras.

Dr. Ben Becker, national AAU chairman from New York City, said Clough would be awarded a silver cup Nov. 29 at the national AAU meeting in Kansas City.

In addition to Seales, Clough coached Dave Armstrong, who won a bronze medal in Munich.

Rutgers Takes Frisbee Crown

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) —Princeton and Rutgers, the universities which played the first intercollegiate football game 103 years ago, met Monday in a roped off parking lot in the nation's first organized intercollegiate frisbee match.

History was repeated—Rutgers won the match 29-27. On Nov. 6, 1869, Rutgers beat Prince-ton 6-4 on a New Brunswick football field.

A crowd of about 400 gathered around the parking lot behind the Rutgers gymnasium to watch the frisbee match, played between seven-person teams according to rules developed by Columbia High School of Maywood, N.J. Princeton asked for a rematch —this time on grass and on its home turf.

PREP OF THE WEEK

Edralin — A Scoring Magician

The pressure is on Daryl Edralin. He must go out and think of new and different ways to score touchdowns, since he's used up most of the old ones already.

The Redwood High School senior earned Independent-Journal Prep of the Week honors by scoring three touchdowns by three different methods — a run, a pass catch and a pass interception — as the Giants blasted Tamalpais Saturday, 41-0, to win their seventh game in eight tries and move within one victory of at least a Marin County Athletic League co-championship.

Earlier in the year, the versatile back threw for a score against San Marin. About the only things left to do are recover a fumble and return a kick, but he still has one game left, so don't be surprised if he does them.

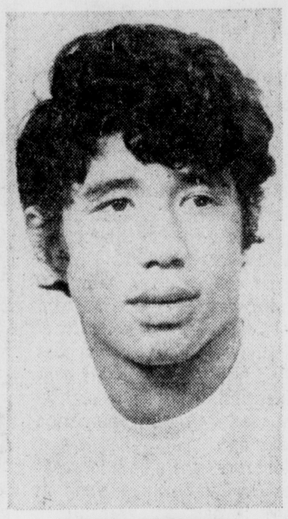
The six-foot, 175-pounder plays half back on offense, cornerback on defense and is the backup quarterback. "I like defense more," he says, "because you can hit more. I'd rather hit somebody than have somebody hit me."

Born in Hawaii, Edralin did not play football or any other sport until moving to Tiburon six years ago. "I went out for Pop Warner, and liked it, so I kept it up," he says.

The Hawaiian background also accounts for his nickname, "Coco," short for coconut. Some baseball teammates tabbed him with it his sophomore year.

Edralin was the second baseman on Redwood's Marin County Athletic League championship team this spring, and on the Italian Club's Joe DiMaggio league champions. "Playing baseball is about all I did during the summer," he says. "Sports take up most of my spare time."

Apparently he doesn't mind.



DARYL EDRALIN
Versatile Back

This winter he plans to go out for basketball.

Edralin intends to become a dentist. He carries a 3.0 (B) average at Redwood and is eyeing Washington State, St. Mary's and Hawaii. "My favorite class is chemistry," he says — then, grinning, "It used to be P.E. But really, it's the teacher who makes the class."

He intends to continue football in college, but concedes "I really want to gain about 10 pounds."

Edralin has noticed a decline in fan interest for football in Marin. "At our school, the students just aren't as enthusiastic as they were four or five years ago. A lot of kids you know are good (players) but don't come out for football because they don't want to hassle with the coaches.

"There's no feeling that football is a bad thing, though. I don't think it'll ever get that far. Winning the championship will make a difference. Everybody wants a winner, and interest picked up this year when it became clear we'd have a good team. Football will come back."

Rick Still Has His NBA Touch

NEW YORK(UPI)—Rick Barry hasn't lost his NBA touch.

Barry, a National Basketball Association scoring champion before lending his talents to the rival ABA, is back in the senior circuit and winning games for the Golden State Warriors with his point making.

The 6-7 Barry, currently ranked 16th in scoring, is on a hot foul shooting streak with 39 straight free throws. The record is 55 consecutive foul shots set by Los Angeles Lakers Coach Bill Sharman as a member of the dynastic Boston Celtics in 1956.

Little Nate Archibald of the Kansas City-Omaha Kings tops the league in scoring with a 33.2 average and in assists with a 10.6 game average. Wilt Chamberlain of Los Angeles is first in field goal pecentages on a .796 mark and Nate Thurmond of Golden State heads the NBA rebounders with a 16.9 average through last Sunday's games.

Highs for the week included Pete Maravich's 44 points and 16 free throws for Atlanta, the 23 rebounds by Detroit's Bob Lanier and Curtis Rowe and the 15 assists twice accomplished by Archibald.

Utah Beats Carolina, 124-112

RALEIGH, N. C. (UPI) — The hot-shooting Utah Stars won a battle of the ABA Division leaders by beating the Carolina Cougars Monday night 124-112.

Utah improved its record to 10-5 and continued to lead the Western Division standings. Carolina's record dropped to 9-5 but the Cougars remained two and one-half games ahead of their closest challengers in the east.

Utah shot 55 per cent from the floor for the game and converted 34 of 35 free throws. The balanced scoring was topped by Glen Combs who had 24 points, and followed by Willie Wise and Ron Boone with 23 each and Jimmy Jones with 22.

The Cougars shot well, hitting 51 per cent from the floor but the difference was at the foul line where they hit 22 of 27. Carolina was led by Billy Cunningham with 29 points and Mack Calvin with 25.

Utah led the entire game except for one tie midway through the first period, 12-12. They led by as many as 15 points in the second quarter and were up by 11 at the half.

Two Stanford Gridders Hurt

STANFORD (UPI) —Linebacker Dennis Peterson and defensive back Charlie McCloud sat out Monday's Stanford drills and their status for Saturday's contest at Washington State is still not known.

Coach Jack Christiansen noted that the 28-23 loss to UCLA "could have gone either way" and represented an interesting contrast between two styles of play. UCLA ran for 310 yards and Stanford passed for 316.

Nebraska Juggernaut Moves Toward No. 1

NEW YORK (UPI)—The University of Nebraska juggernaut, methodically rolling over everyone in sight since its opening-season loss to UCLA, took another step closer to the top of the United Press International Board of Coaches Football Ratings today by passing Alabama into the No. 2 spot behind top-ranked Southern California.

The defending national champion Cornhuskers, who belted Colorado 33-10 last week at Boulder, Colo., picked up six first place votes from the coaches and 284 points. Southern California again picked up the vast majority of No. 1 nods (27) and 342 total points to easily pace the field for the eighth straight week.

Alabama, which plays unbeaten LSU Saturday in the year's first "Game of the Century" got a rude shock from the coaches before it even took the field. The Crimson Tide, coming off a 58-14 shellacking of Mississippi State, fell victim to the steady rise of Nebraska which has not let up since opening day when it lost 28-23 to UCLA. Alabama wound up with 280 points and also got the remaining two first place votes.

The only other change in the top 10 (and this may also be a bad omen for Alabama) was at No. 6 where LSU switched places with Oklahoma after both had struggles last week. Oklahoma's potent running game managed just 20 points against Iowa State.

As in previous weeks, voting was highly concentrated among the first seven teams and as a result, only ten other teams received votes this week. Penn State was eleventh followed in order by Notre Dame, Tennessee, Iowa State, Texas Tech and a tie for 16th between North Carolina and Colorado.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The United Press International top major college football teams with first place votes and won-lost records in parentheses:

Hill 33rd On PGA Money List

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mike Hill, winner of the Texas open last week, is a long way from breaking into the top 10 on the PGA money-won list, but his two-stroke victory at San Antonio was worth $25,000 and moved him from 57th on the list to 33rd with earnings of $67,067.

Jack Nicklaus, who passed up the Texas event, is still first on the scale with $290,542 and Lee Trevino is second. Trevino finished second in Texas and won $14,300, giving him $214,805 for the year thus far.

Perreault Leads NHL In Scoring

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gil Perreault and Rene Robert are two reasons for the Buffalo Sabres' surprising start in the National Hockey Laague.

The Sabres won six and tied five in their first 13 games, with Perreault providing the spark. Perreault scored seven goals and assisted on 18 other markers to keep his individual scoring lead with 25 points.

Robert is tied for fourth place with Jacques Lemaire of Montreal and Ralph Baskstrom of Los Angeles at 21 points. Rod Gilbert of the New York Rangers and John Bucyk of Boston share second place with 22 points each.

Backstrom has been the spearhead of the Los Angeles attack. The Kings lost five of their first six games and then won their last seven contests to lead the West Division.

Montreal leads the East Division and the Canadiens can pinpoint goalie Ken Dryden's defense for their lofty position. Dryden has a 1.62 goals against average and three shutouts in 13 starts.

The Philadelphia Flyers are the most penalized team in the NHL with 223 minutes in infractions.

Anxiety Among Giant Players

First of a series

There is considerable anxiety among big names of the Giants and it won't be dispelled until after the winter trading sessions of major league baseball owners who will meet later in the month at Honolulu.

WILLIE McCOVEY isn't sure about his future status with the Candlestick Kids although he is confident that he is sound enough for two or three more baseball campaigns.

Juan Marichal isn't as certain about his baseball future but believes he can make a comeback following a back operation.

When Willie Mays was traded to the Mets last May 11, all Giants suddenly realized they were expendable, excluding perhaps the team's sensational shortstop, Chris Speier.

Just two weeks before Mays was traded, Garry Maddox was called up from Phoenix. Ken Henderson, long looked upon as Mays' heir apparent in centerfield, was shocked when Maddox replaced Henderson in the outfield.

HENDERSON HAD no way of knowing that Maddox was called up because of what was about to happen — the trade of Mays. Henderson, in a batting slump at the time, thought that the Giants were getting ready to trade him. Henderson later was assured otherwise and he settled down.

However, there have been no recent assurances to Bonds or McCovey that they are immune to possible trades. Still, that doesn't mean they are untouchable. Horace Stoneham did indicate that Marichal wouldn't be traded even though Marichal was put on a waiver list during the final month of the 1972 season.

UNTIL MARICHAL proves that his back now is sound, it isn't likely that other teams would be willing to take a chance on him, particularly at his $140,000 salary and after the worst season (6-160) or his brilliant pitching career.

Bonds didn't have a brilliant year this past season but the only phase of his overall performance that didn't sparkle was his batting average .259. As a leadoff man, Bonds knocked in 80 runs. No other leadoff batter came close to that kind of RBI production. He stole 44 bases in 50 attempts, hit 26 homers, 29 doubles, five triples and led the team in game-winning hits with 11. That's the type of record which commands attention in any trade talks.

McCOVEY'S 1972 record wouldn't command attention anywhere but everyone in baseball knows there was a reason why he hit only .213. Stretch played in only 81 games in 1972 due to a broken arm, suffered in the fourth game of the season.

After Stoneham pruned Mays' $165,000 salary from the payroll, an admitted economy move due to mini crowds at Candlestick, Stoneham's front office lieutenants openly stated that was just the first step in budget balancing — that when the season was over McCovey's $110,000 salary would be traded to a team that could afford it.

IT'S VERY doubtful that Stoneham would trade McCovey for that reason. The Giants lost a bundle at Candlestick's gate this year but still are very sound financially with several million dollars reserve operating capital.

If Stoneham did trade McCovey it would be because Stoneham is convinced Dave Kingman or Ed Goodson can do an adequate job at first base.

(Tomorrow: More about McCovey).

Home Federal Savings and Loan Association, with headquarters in San Francisco, is seeking a branch office in Redhill Shopping Center in San Anselmo.

If approved, it would be the first branch of Home Federal in Marin. Robert Hoilien, vice president and administrative officer for Home Federal Savings, said an application for the Marin branch has been sent to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board in San Francisco for approval. A decision on the application is expected by January.

If approval is granted, Home Federal will rent an office space at the Redhill center and open for business early next year.

The company has its main office at 20 O'Farrell Street in San Francisco and Branches in Oakland and in Modesto.

Housing Sales On The Rise

By CHARLES E. DOLE
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Is the factory-built house only making a big thud?

Not if you look at the records and order books of hundreds of companies located all over the U.S.

A survey of more than 900 housing manufacturers from coast to coast for Professional Builder magazine shows that overall sales are up 46 per cent in the first six months of 1972 compared with the same period a year ago.

Moreover, the firms forecast sales for the entire year at almost 50 per cent over 1971.

This contrasts strikingly with the dramatic failures of some of the large-scale factory-built operations over the past year, such as Stirling-Homex in Avon, N.Y. Other companies, such as Behring in Florida, have failed to make a go of their factory-built operations and have been forced to retreat. Too, Operation Breakthrough, sponsored by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, hasn't been the success story that was envisioned a couple of years ago.

Still, the fact remains that some firms, especially the smaller ones, are finding sales and success along the way.

In 1971, some 325,000 homes, of 16 per cent of all housing built in the U.S., was prefabricated in 1,265 plants owned by 575 manufacturers. They ranged in price from a low of about $12,000 up to $100,000 or more.

Add to this almost a half-million mobile homes and you come up with a tidy figure on the impact of factory techniques on the building industry today.

Some observers see it as a major trend for the future — Cahners Publishing Co. of Boston, for example. Two years go the company, owners of a string of building-oriented publications, including Professional Builder, initiated what it calls an industrialized building exposition and congress — or INBEX for short.

Builders were quick to admit the advantages of an industrialized "expo" but gave little help in organizing the first one.

Now, with the third edition of INBEX opening in the Kentucky Exposition Center in Louisville this week, the magazine looks for new records in both attendance and exhibit space.

The Professional Builder survey reports:

—Some 53 per cent of both single- and multi-family units will be built with components or manufactured units this year, the first time the figure has exceeded 50 per cent.

—Seven out of 10 large-volume builders will use components or other forms of factory building in 1972.

Two-thirds of the cost of a house is still labor. With escalating labor costs, plus the shortage of skilled craftsmen on the site, builders are being forced to turn more and more to factory-supplied components or other forms of factory building in 1972.

Of course, the word "prefab" has always been a bad word which goes all the way back to the beginning of the industry 30 or more years ago. Yet many of the so-called prefab units of today bear litlle resemblance to the look-alikes of a generation ago. To continue the trend, the industry will have to come up with even newer and better ideas in design and composition than in use today.

Modulars, up 75 per cent in the first half of this year over 1971, led all other forms of factory-built housing. Components followed with a rise of 65 per cent. Panelized packages were up 64 per cent, sectionals 47 per cent, precut packages 46 per cent, metal buildings 27 per cent, and precast-prestressed concrete components 8 per cent.

As far as many prefab builders are concerned, it's not such a bad business, after all.

Cal-Pacific Forms New Market Division

Cal-Pacific Distributing Co. of 38 Lisbon Street, San Rafael, today announced the formation of a new division for the manufacturing and marketing of its Fire-Stix barbecue starting products.

Herbert E. Sherr of Tiburon, president of the company, said national distribution will begin later this year through supermarkets and in department, hardware and sporting goods stores.

The company's first product, a non-explosive, non-toxic barbecue starter, was test-marketed during the past year. Sherr said consumer demand for Fire-Stix has been surprisingly good, both in the barbecue market and by camping enthusiasts for starting campfires.

Sherr's contention is that the nation's backyard chefs are looking for a safer way to light barbecue fires than by the flammable liquid starters. "Fire-Stix is especially suited to households with small children because it is non-poisonous and won't harm youngsters even if they eat it." One $1.59 box provides enough starter for up to 20 fires — more than the average barbecuer will use during a season.

Fire-Stix is also ideal for starting campfires, said Sherr. "Since state and national parks prohibit the gathering of both firewood and kindling, Fire-Stix provides the only easy way of starting campfires fast. In fact, the product allows any camper to meet the old boy scout tradition of starting a campfire with only one match," he said.

"Our product will be the only nationally distributed starter that is neither electric nor liquid, and we expect to capture a significant share of the market within the next three years."

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

List Of Income Funds Available To Readers

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Will you please send me information on income funds. I retired this year and am about to sell some real estate. — J.W.

A. Gladly. The list I am sending includes a broad sampling of load and no-load funds. Portfolio orientations run the gamut from government bonds to common stocks. Other readers may receive this recommended list by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me c/o this newspaper.

Q. What do you think of Gilbert Flexi-Van (NYSE) as a buy? Should I sell 100 Phillips Petroleum (NYSE) purchased at $27? — N.S.

A. I see no justification for sale of Phillips even though some consolidation in share trading levels was apparent following the abandonment of a North Sea well. It is understood that Phillips has acquired several promising tracts in the United Kingdom's recent lease sales.

The company's North Sea discoveries in and around Ekofisk should add significantly to earnings beginning next year. Construction of an oil/gas pipeline from the area is probably not too far down the road. Shares have above-average appreciation potential.

Gilbert Flexi-Van reported earnings up 97 per cent to $1.09 for the first nine months on a gain of 23 per cent in sales. Investment tax credits are expected to contribute 35 cents a share for the full year. Given the strong third-quarter performance, profits should surpass earlier estimates of $1.30-$1.35 a share.

The company's intermodal container leasing business, which contributes approximately 85 per cent of total pre-tax income, has a 30 per cent pre-tax takedown. A $40 million contract received in September is a strong plus.

The Gilbart division, providing distribution and processing services for the garment district, is a source of steady though static revenue. Efficiencies and cost cutting should improve profit margins here, however. Conditionally, Gilbert is rated a buy on any weakness to the 20 level.

Henry Shapiro, UPI, Moscow, dean of Western correspondents in the USSR

If you could convince the Soviets that you were HENRY SHAPIRO of United Press International you'd get in. But since you can't, better let Shapiro do it for you . . . and then write a dispatch which you can read in the I-J.

For more than 30 years Shapiro has been manager of UPI'S Moscow Bureau. He is the dean of Western correspondents there. His abilities, his writing and his honors are known and respected throughout the world—even by the Russians!

His assignment is perhaps the most difficult of any correspondent. He must maintain a delicate balance within a totalitarian world yet report to you, the reader, on events often unreported within the USSR itself. He must maintain accreditation yet maintain credibility with his audience for reliable reporting.

Such talents have enabled Henry Shapiro to cover every major event in the USSR since the treason trials of the Thirties, the siege of Leningrad, Stalin's death, Khrushchev's rise and fall from power, the Soviet space flights—the entire spectrum of the USSR.

When you read Shapiro's dispatches in the I-J you can be sure you are receiving authoritative information. He's your man in the Kremlin. In fact, one of the few men who comes out with the news . . . because he's "in."
